FARMERS JOIN IN PROTEST OF NEW MILK CODE

Objections Against County Health Board Proposal Raised at Meeting.

PLAN TO SEE DR. SIFRITT

Mayor Smith Lends Support to Producers; Code Follows U. S. Program.

Eighty-four persons, most of them farmers producing milk in Marion county, met at the Claridon school last night and took steps to protest against the county board of health's new milk code which is to go into effect Thursday.

The group named a committee of seven to arrange for a meeting of the producers, distributors and other milk handlers with the county board to protest against the code and possibly seek its repeal.

Mayor Frederick C. Smith, invited to speak at the meeting, criticized the code. Two years ago he led a movement that resulted in repeal of a milk code passed by the city board of health to apply in Marion city. The county health board's code affects only farmers who sell milk outside the city of Marion.

Dr. N. Sifritt, county health commissioner, today said he did not learn of the meeting until this morning and that he did not wish to make any comment on the action or statements of Mayor Smith at this time.

Committee Members

E. A. Williams of Grand Prairie township, chairman of the committee named to arrange for a joint meeting of dairy farmers and the county health board, called on Dr. Sifritt this morning but said arrangements have not been made for the meeting. On the committee with Mr. Williams are Paul Lawrence of Claridon township, J. H. Wolfeslagle of Claridon township, Arthur Reidenour of Pleasant township, William Wickersham of Claridon township and Daniel M. Earl of east of Marion.

The county code is drawn on the plan of a model code recommended by the federal government's public health service, and the county sanitarian whose duties will include virtually all field work required by the code receives part of his salary from the federal government under the social security program.

It was indicated by the county health board when it adopted the code that it would not begin rigid enforcement of the code immediately but would give producers and distributors time to gradually come up to the requirements. The board, however, has asked that all producers and distributors obtain permits under the code by tomorrow.

Mayor Smith said in his talk that the requirements of the code place a heavy additional expense on the farmers of the county in the production of milk and probably will bring about an increase in the retail price of milk.

He asserted the authorities administering the code have broad discretionary powers and that the code arbitrarily required the use of costly equipment.

Grading Is Provided

Provision is made in the code, he said, for grading of milk and asserted that the basis of grading is not on tests of purity but on requirements that certain equipment be used in handling the milk.

The system of grading as outlined in the code, he continued, tends to build a monopoly in the production of milk by excluding the small producers who can not afford to obtain costly equipment.

The mayor expressed the opinion that the movement for milk codes generally has a decidedly political flavor and said, "If it's a choice between milk that has a little ordinary dirt in it and milk that's full of politics, I'll take the dirt."

The average person, he said, feels that the bacteria count of milk determines its purity whereas the kind of germs, rather than their number, is the important thing. Many germs are not harmful and many are decidedly beneficial, he said.

Recalling the repeal of the code passed in Marion, he said the quality of the milk in the city is satisfactory and that he would oppose any effort to put a code into effect in the city.

Harvey W. Zachman, operator of a dairy and a producer of milk as well, was chairman of the meeting. He said milk producers had arranged for the meeting.

MISS ELIZABETH ROCKWELL

Above are four of the state officers here for the annual convention of the Ohio Youth's Temperance Council which opened last night at Epworth M. E. church. Mr. Hurd of Youngstown, is president, Mrs. Drummond of Oberlin, state general secretary, Miss Rockwell of Barnesville, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. West of Rainsboro, treasurer.

Youth Convention Gets Under Way Here Today

First Session Held Following Opening Banquet at Epworth M. E. Church; 150 Attend.

A banquet attended by approximately 150 members and guests, greetings from city and civic leaders and a talk by Dr. G. Harrison Orians, of Toledo university, launched the annual convention of the Ohio Youth's Temperance council last night at Epworth M. E. church. The banquet theme was "The Y. T. C. Airplane Speeding Forward," and talks centered on that subject.

Dallas L. Hurd of Youngstown, president of the state council, acted as pilot and greetings were extended by Mayor F. C. Smith, W. D. Brown, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, Dr. E. T. Waring, pastor of the host church, Mrs. Laura Imbody, president of the Marion County W. C. T. U. of which the youth council is a branch, and Miss Elizabeth Jeffrey, president of the Marion County Youth Temperance Council and general convention chairman.

Responses were given by Miss Mabel Edgerton of Barnesville, state recording secretary, Harold Milford of Canton, state vice president, and Mrs. Viola D. Romans of Columbus, state president of the W. C. T. U. Mr. Orians talk was on "The Log Book." He is a former Marion resident and a past state president of the organization.

This morning the delegates and visitors met for the opening business session, and devotions were by Mrs. Arnetta Gall West of Rainsboro, state treasurer. Reports of officers were given and the president announced his committees for the convention. An address was given by Miss Helen Allen of Newton Falls. A talk by Dr. Peter Wiseman of Ontario, Canada, and a visit to the Harding memorial where a picture of the group will be taken, and a visit to the Harding museum were scheduled for this afternoon.

Faith Is Required

"The reformer must have faith, love, enthusiasm and prudence to carry on in the work of the Youth Temperance Council," Dr. Orians told his audience. "We must have a goal, and work for it," he said in answer to his own question of "Where Are We Going?" Some things can be laughed off, he said, but one thing we can not do is laugh off the effects of alcohol on human beings.

The area, which includes Marion, Morrow, Ashland, Richland, Wyandot and Crawford counties, will be under the supervision of Robert G. Mish of Marion, recently appointed field office manager.

The program tomorrow opens at 1 p. m. with an address of welcome by Mayor Earl L. McFarland of Mansfield. Following will be an address on security by E. A. DAVEY TO DISCUSS RELIEF WITH MAYORS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 30—Mayor Myron B. Gessman said today he had the promise of Gov. Martin L. Davey for a meeting with Ohio mayors to discuss the relief problem before the special session of the legislature is adjourned.

"The governor said he did not wish to take up anything until final disposition is made of the biennial budget bill, but he promised to meet with us after action is taken on it," Gessman said.

Mt. Gilead Lakes To Be Mecca for Anglers Tonight

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, June 30—States lake park here, the mecca of hundreds of Ohio fishermen, will open to those in quest of the finny tribe at 12 o'clock tonight.

Though the bass season opened June 16, no fishing has been permitted in the lake so far this year. The interest in the lake, which several times has brought hundreds here for the opening day is as great as usual, Guy Thompson, Morrow county game protector said today.

The lake is stocked with bass, crappies, blue gills, and perch. Anglers must, under the new law, have a license even though they use no reel, Game Protector Thompson pointed out, and no one will be permitted to fish in the lake without a license, he said.

He also called attention to the fact that no one is permitted to disturb the turtles and the giant frogs which are an unusual feature of the lake. The frogs, some weighing several pounds, were originally brought here from Missouri.

MAP $250,000 WPA PROJECTS FOR MARION CO.

Plans Under Consideration as District Set-Up Is Changed.

FOLLOW REVISED POLICY

Roads, County Garage and Tuberculosis Hospital Under Consideration.

With the ending today of the old WPA district No. 6 and establishment of a new district to include Marion county, E. J. Nesper of Marion, now supervisor of six counties, said blanket projects to cost approximately $250,000 in Marion county are under consideration.

The blanket projects are in line with the newly adopted state WPA policy of consolidating smaller projects into large ones to reduce supervisory costs. The projects under consideration by county commissioners now are a joint project to cost approximately $50,000 for a county garage and a hospital in one of the county home buildings for tuberculosis patients, and a countywide road project to cost between $150,000 and $200,000, Mr. Nesper said.

Objections From Engineer

County Engineer Carl H. Tozzer yesterday expressed disfavor with the blanket road project which commissioners said might include the annual surface treating program. Mr. Tozzer said he would not oppose a project costing a reasonable figure, about $50,000, but that a $200,000 project would involve expenditures too great for the county to meet without difficulty.

He said he also is opposed to turning over paving of county roads, bridge construction and any other work of an engineering type to WPA workers. He said he would approve a project in which WPA would work only on berms and road drainage ditches.

The $200,000 project originally involved an expenditure of $500,000 as first discussed, Mr. Nesper said. Mr. Tozzer argued that the county's share of this as sponsor would be as much or more than is spent on county roads during an entire year normally.

New District

The redistricting program of WPA, which becomes effective tomorrow, will place the following counties with Marion in the new district No. 6: Delaware, Union, and Hardin all new in the district, and Morrow, Wyandot, Crawford and 14 others. Headquarters will be in Columbus, instead of Sandusky as in the past, and will be in charge of H. M. Haylor of Mansfield, formerly director of a previous WPA district in which Marion county was located. At that time he had headquarters in Mansfield. He is widely known in Marion where he assisted in conducting a Y. M. C. A. drive. His salary will be $350 a month.

Mr. Haylor's appointment was made today at the last moment as S. D. Downing of Sandusky, director of the old district No. 6, scheduled to become director of the new district, resigned to enter private business.

Mr. Nesper, formerly supervisor for only Marion and Morrow counties, will have charge of Marion, Wyandot, Crawford, Hardin, Logan and Union counties under the new setup. Morrow county will be supervised from the Mansfield office in charge of a Mr. Herzog.

Ed O. Uncapher of Marion, formerly assistant field manager over Mr. Nesper for six counties in the old district, will be transferred to Springfield where he will have charge of Champaign, Clark and Green counties.

No Employe Cut

There will be no further reduction in the number of WPA employes as a result of the redistricting, Mr. Nesper said. The redistricting was made possible by a reduction in WPA rolls in Ohio from 187,000 in May 1936 to 116,000 last month.

In some 31 counties WPA will be discontinued in July or August permanently, according to Dr. Carl Watson, state administrator. Counties with more than 300 workers will continue until further orders. Marion has approximately 600 workers.

The proposed Marion county projects under consideration by commissioners have not been officially submitted by commissioners nor has definite action been t—

Roosevelt's Son and Miss duPont Say Their "I do"

By The Associated Press

WILMINGTON, Del., June 30—The story-book romance of Ethel duPont and Franklin Roosevelt Jr. moved swiftly today to its climax in the flower-banked chancel of a simple country church.

The wedding ceremony which will unite the two members of two of the country's most famous and powerful families, was scheduled for 4 p. m.

It will make of President Roosevelt, cabinet members and heads of the duPont clan mere spectators, taking a back seat for two youngsters in love.

The President, with Mrs. Roosevelt, was to arrive from Washington about noon. Arrangements were made for his train to stand at a country station, Montchanin, while he went first on a round of social functions and then to rustic Christ church in Christiana Hundred to see his son wed.

U. S. NOW HAS LARGEST DEBT

Ends Fiscal Year With Greatest Income Since 1921 and Spending Reduced.

ONE BILLION IN TREASURY

Budget Bureau Expects Revenue To Top Revised Estimate by $50,000,000.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 30—The treasury rounded out another year today with the smallest deficit in six years, the biggest debt in history and $1,000,000,000 in the cash box.

Government income was the largest since 1921 and spending was reduced from last year.

President Roosevelt made public at his press conference late yesterday a budget bureau report showing revenues would top his revised estimate by $50,000,000 to $60,000,000.

Spending Forecast Exceeded

Spending for ordinary government purposes, it said, will exceed the forecast by $75,000,000.

The $75,000,000 figure, Mr. Roosevelt said, included $40,000,000 which the treasury deposited in the social security old age reserve fund this month. It had been intended originally to make the deposit in the next fiscal year.

Including emergency and relief outlays in the spending estimate, treasury statistics showed that expenditures went $137,000,000 over the President's revised estimate on June 26. The computation did not include $103,000,000 spent to pay off government debt.

The $137,000,000 excess over the estimate will increase further when spending is computed through June 30.

Mr. Roosevelt estimated the public debt would stand at about $36,400,000,000 at midnight tonight. This would be the largest June 30 figure ever recorded, but would be $233,000,000 under the all-time peak of June 15.

The President said the debt has remained virtually stationary since last December, except for borrowing to finance treasury gold acquisitions and payments into government life insurance, old age and unemployment insurance reserve funds.

Borrowing for gold purchases, he said, has totaled $1,050,000,000. He asserted this borrowing put a corresponding sum of gold assets in the treasury.

This and the other listed items, he said, brought a debt increase of $2,000,000,000 on paper.

Treasury reports through June 26 listed revenues this year at $5,—8,578,000, or about 28 per cent per last year.

BETTER PL—ON SYSTEM SUGGESTED BY SENATORS

Would Establish Trust Fund and Limit Outgo Each Year to Amount Actually Set Aside.

(COLUMBUS, O., June 30—A special subcommittee of the Ohio senate, advanced today, eight suggestions for improving the state's aid for aged system and recommended that their merits be investigated carefully.

The subcommittee, which conducted a preliminary inquiry into the handling of old age pensions, urged in a report to the recodification committee that the suggestions be taken up immediately "in order to protect the taxpayers of Ohio as well as the recipients of pensions."

It also recommended that the entire committee investigate the division of aid for the aged.

It proposed an investigation of the advisability of establishing a trust fund from which pensions would be paid.

Vice Chairman John Taylor, Democrat of Columbiana, said, "there seems to be a feeling that a reasonable amount each year should be put aside exclusively for old age pensions until such fund equals the average annual requirement," and that then the policy should be to spend only the

Marion Postoffice Employe Ends 38 Years of Service

John E. Davis Leaves Desk At Register Division Today.

BY EDNA S. DUTTON

When John E. Davis of 311 Bellefontaine avenue leaves his desk in the register division of the Marion postoffice this afternoon it will be to bring to a close 38 years of service as an employe of the U. S. postal service, all of which have been spent in Marion.

Starting just before the turn of the century Mr. Davis has served as substitute carrier, general clerk, mailing clerk, special mailing clerk and register clerk. Entering the service under the administration of J. B. Fisher on March 1, 1899, Mr. Davis has served under five postmasters, Mr. Fisher, Milton R. Dickerson, Frank Campbell, French Crow and Postmaster L. L. Lamborn.

Prior to entering the postoffice Mr. Davis was engaged in newspaper work and following his graduation from Ohio Northern university owned and published the St. Paris News, in his native town of St. Paris, Champaign county. He came to Marion from St. Paris in 1897 and for a time was employed on what was at that time The Marion Mirror, later The Tribune.

No Telephone Service

When Mr. Davis entered the employ of the postoffice here it was housed in a small room on West Center street on what is the present site of the Woolworth store. There was no telephone in the office, the residents of city and county for the most part "called" for their mail. A cart, propelled by man power transported the mail to and from the depot which was on Mill street where the building occupied by Merchants Transfer & Storage Co. now stands. He was the fourth clerk to be appointed and there were only six regular city carriers. The staff now includes 24 regular carriers and there are 21 clerks now employed.

The office opened early and remained open as long as there was any business, and folks might call for a belated Christmas package on Christmas day. Busy folks, or those who wanted their mail as soon as they stepped into the postoffice, rented the few "lock" boxes available in the one-room office, and the wrath or disappointment gleamed in the eye of the patron when the clerk "got the mail in

U. S. HOLDS RYDER CUP BY DEFEATING BRITISH

Britain's Picked Team Beaten 8 to 4; Sarazen's Rally Helps.

By The Associated Press

SOUTHPORT, Eng., June 30—Scoring first victory on British soil, the United States Ryder cup team today retained the international golf trophy by defeating Great Britain's picked team of professionals, 8 to 4.

This series marks the first time that either side has been able to retain the cup on foreign soil.

Gene Sarazen, rallying from a deficit of three down with nine holes to go, cut Percy Alliss down on the home nine to defeat him by 1 up.

Veteran Ed. Dudley assured the invading Americans of victory in the series by setting back Alf Perry, British open champion two years ago, 12 to 1.

Henry Picard completed the rout of the Britons and made the final standing 8 to 4, by whipping Arthur Lacey, 2 and 1.

CHAUTEMPS IS MADE FINANCIAL DICTATOR

Sweeping Powers Granted Government To Save Money Structure.

By The Associated Press

PARIS, June 30—The French senate today granted Camille Chautemps' government the sweeping powers it had demanded to save the nation's money structure.

The vote was 167 to 82. The chamber of deputies already had approved the measure.

The senate finance committee previously approved, 20 to 2, the government's bill.

It was this committee's opposition to similar decree powers which brought the downfall of Leon Blum's regime 10 days ago.

Among the 10 committee members who abstained from voting was Joseph Caillaux, an opponent of the people's front government and finance minister in the Briand cabinet. He was one of the foremost opponents of Blum.

Bonnet was quoted by senators as telling the finance committee:

"Inflation, devaluation and new taxes—such is the conclusion I cannot avoid."

PHONE WIRES PULLED DOWN

Violence Attends Resumption of Work at Republic Steel Mills in Canton.

FIVE STRUCK WITH ROCKS

Planes Spot Disorders and Send Guardsmen To Quell Them; 60 Pickets Held.

By The Associated Press

CANTON, O., June 30 — Dynamite blasted a water main, telephone wires were ripped from poles and pickets hooted and jeered, as the Republic Steel Corp. successfully opened its three plants here today under protection of the Ohio national guard.

Two low flying guard airplanes acted as "eyes" for the heavily-armed troops, spotting any disorder and sending guard detachments to quell it. Sixty pickets were arrested. Five non-strikers were hurt by rocks hurled by pickets.

By mid morning, Republic announced that 112 automobiles had hurried approximately 450 workers into the plants, and the movement of cars in and out kept up.

Women Among Pickets

Some 200 pickets, many women, were kept moving smartly along by the guardsmen.

Reluctantly, they kept on a patient march, two and three in a group, shouting "scab" at the soldiers.

Comparative quiet ranged along the other fronts of the great lakes steel strike, now entering the second month.

At Johnstown, Pa., where the Cambria works of Bethlehem was harried yesterday by roaring dynamite blasts which snapped two water pipelines, Mayor James J. Shields ordered CIO leaders to leave the city.

James Mark, CIO leader in Johnstown, and C. W. Jones, vice president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, were called before council meeting last night and told their presence was inimical to community peace.

The labor leaders refused to go. Said Mark:

"We are both good American citizens. We intend to stay here until we leave of our own accord."

Calls for Martial Law

At the same time, Mark telegraphed Gov. George H. Earle making that martial law again be declared in Johnstown.

He called Shields "this mad mayor."

At Youngstown and Warren, the mills of Rheni & Tube and Republic continued operations, which company officials said were approaching normal for this time of the year.

Some time during the night, explosives damaged a six-inch water main in front of the Alloy Steel plant of Republic. The damage was quickly repaired. Plant operations were not affected.

Telephone wires were ripped from poles today.

In the Canton plants, 2,000 men have been interned since the beginning of the strike May 26. These workers were being taken out.

Pickets massed around the entrances of the plants early today.

Brigadier William L. Martin ordered a gas patrol to disperse them.

Guardsmen pushed the pickets out of the way and kept them patrolling in twos and threes.

No Disorders

The pickets were vocal but there were no major disorders.

Among those held by the guardsmen were Frank A. Hardesty, subregional director of the CIO and Homer Downard, identified by the "All-Nations Lodge," a CIO organization.

Republic Steel, at Pittsburgh, posted a $1,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of any person intimidating its workers in three Pittsburgh district plants. Announcement of the offer was contained in a newspaper advertisement. Plants involved are the Diworth Porter Co., Pittsburgh, and the Ideal Foundry and Union Drawn Steel Co., both of Beaver Falls, Pa.

Joseph Timko, strike leader, said he had asked the LaFollette civil liberties committee to investigate "all phases" of the reopening of HSINKING, Manchukuo, June 30—A Japanese army communique announced today that Japanese-Manchukuoan land forces had sunk one Soviet gunboat, inflicted heavy losses on another and repulsed a third vessel after being fired upon at Blagoveshchensk, on the Amur river.

The communique asserted three Soviet boats, "invading" south Kanchatzu island below Blagoveshchensk, "opened fire on Japanese-Manchukuo guards." The Japanese action followed.

The Manchukuo government immediately filed a vigorous protest to Moscow against the alleged invasion.

MARION COUNTY HONEY AMONG WORLD'S BEST

Conditions Assure Quality Product Here, Bee Expert Says in Talk to Rotary Club.

That Marion county is one of the localities where the world's best grade of honey is produced was information conveyed to members of the Marion Rotary club in a talk given in their weekly luncheon meeting at Hotel Harding yesterday.

The speaker was James W. Bain, one of the county's outstanding apiarists, who gave an account of bee culture and honey production replete with many interesting and amazing facts regarding bees and their almost unbelievable perfection in organization and efficiency.

Mr. Bain, who lives on the Delaware road a short distance south of Marion and operates an apiary there and who has gained recognition as an authority on the subject, said that Ohio and Michigan produce the world's finest honey and that Marion county ranks as one of the three leading counties of the state in quality production.

Flawless Product
He explained that Marion county's white clover honey maintains an exceptionally pure standard because it is gathered at a time when no other honey producing plants are in blossom. In this connection he said there are numerous kinds of honey, its flavor, color and other characteristics depending on the flowers to be found in the various localities. The color ranges from a variety absolutely clear to others "as black as ink."

Mr. Bain took his audience through all of the major details of bee culture, explaining the functions of the three branches of the bee family to be found in every hive—the queen, the workers and the drones. In addition to telling of their work in honey production he explained how essential they are to agriculture and in maintenance of orchards because of their pollination service.

He said that unless there is development of bee culture in the country adequate for fertilizing red clover, that farm crop is certain to become extinct.

Following his talk, Mr. Bain answered numerous questions asked by the Rotarians regarding interesting phases of the subject.

This meeting of the Rotary club marked the close of the club year under the administration of W. D. Brown, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, as president. A new corps of officers named by Edgar Barnhart as president will take charge next Tuesday. At the conclusion of yesterday's meeting Mr. Brown was presented a past president's pin in a talk given by Gene Hill, a former president, who accompanied the presentation with an expression of appreciation for the successful conduct of the club's affairs during the past year.

A brief talk introducing Mr. Bain as the day's speaker was given by John Stafford, club program chairman for June.

Virtually every country in the world is now a consumer of crude rubber, while 20 years ago the rubber manufacturing industry was confined almost entirely to the United States, Canada and western Europe.

Women should unionize. If they are not working they are dependent upon someone who does work. Marion's Retail Clerks are now organizing. Write for information.

INGLEWOOD, Calif., June 30—A man, identified only as "Eddie the sailor" by police, became suspect No. 1 today in the search for the degenerate slayer of the three little Inglewood girls. Rewards totalling $3,500 spurred the hunt for the fiend's capture.

"Eddie the sailor," police learned, almost succeeded in luring two more girls into his automobile Saturday—the day Madeline Everett, 7, her sister Melba, 9, and Jeanette Marjorie Stephens, 8, were slain.

Lillian Popp, 11, told officers she and her cousin almost joined the three victims in what "Eddie the sailor" represented was going to be a rabbit hunt in the hills.

"When we reached the car, I kicked my cousin and reminded her, in whispers, what her mother had told her about going riding with a strange man," Lillian said. "So we didn't go, but Melba and Jeanette and Madeline got into the car with the man."

Authorities said the crimes were still far from solution.

They know the kidnapings and murders were the work of a sexual pervert. That was established definitely by the report of the county autopsy surgeon, who examined the bodies.

As law enforcement officers checked the whereabouts of every known perpetrator of a sexual crime, citizens cooperated in the manhunt by reporting the actions of every suspicious character in their neighborhoods.

Released after being subjected to rigorous questioning was a young man closely resembling the "over-all clad workman" who last Friday asked Olive Everett, sister of two of the slain girls, to accompany him on a rabbit hunt. He had a sailor's knot tatooed on his right arm. He wore a small, pointed mustache. Someone answering this general description, the authorities believe, is the man who lured the tots to their death with the promise of a rabbit hunt.

PRATT DENIES VOTE FRAUD ACCUSATIONS

Denies He Was With Former Assistant When "Steal" Allegedly Was Made.

By The Associated Press

IRONTON, O., June 30—County Auditor Pearl A. Pratt's denial of implication in any ballot tampering after the November election went into the record today at trial of Pratt and three other persons on charges of changing votes in the Lawrence county commissioner race.

Disagreeing with testimony of his former assistant, Dan C. Rapp, who was the state's principal witness, Pratt said he had no connection with the case and was not with Rapp at the courthouse when the "steal" is alleged to have taken place.

William C. Dickens, defeated Republican candidate for commissioner; Elizabeth Griffith, former county relief director; and Wade Webb, former deputy sheriff, are on trial with Pratt.

The state charges that on the Sunday after the election, the board of elections office was broken into and more than 200 ballots changed so that Dickens would win over Democrat Harry Ranton on a recount. A common pleas court decision later gave the office to Ranton, who since has died.

PIPE LINE BLASTED AS PLANTS REOPEN

the plants in Beaver Falls. A union member was fatally injured there Monday.

It was here at Canton that the steel strike began with barricades and picket lines after the corporation declined CIO's demand for a signed contract.

Tomorrow morning, at Indiana Harbor, Ind., more steel plants will open, the Inland Steel Co. announced. But CIO's Van A. Bittner, regional director there, said the union would "do everything possible to stop the plant from opening;" that 99 per cent of the 13,000 Inland Steel employes were members of CIO.

Both sides were silent concerning President Roosevelt's comment that he believed the majority of people's opinion of strikers and steel companies alike was well summarized in Shakespeare's line: "A plague on both your houses."

Hits at Extremists

White House spokesmen were quick to point out, however, that the President had not meant the comment as applicable to both sides in general, but rather to the extremists of both sides.

Youngstown Active

The Youngstown Steel district, busy and smoky once more, scarcely noticed last night when the first night-time change of shifts in five weeks took place. The Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. back on a three-shift basis for the first time since the mills reopened last week, changed shifts at 11 p. m. with only two pickets in sight.

Some policemen, deputy sheriffs and a group of militiamen watched as several hundred men entered or left the plant.

Sheriff's men reported early today the finding of two dynamite bombs on a grass plot near the "Stop 14" entrance to the Tube company's main works.

On other sections of the Youngstown strike front no pickets were visible; only guardsmen, watching their posts.

During the night the sprawling mills along the Mahoning river hummed. There was the noise of hissing steam and the ring of metal against metal.

Cleveland Plant May Open

Added to the announcement of Inland Steel's intention to reopen at Indiana Harbor tomorrow were reports that Republic Steel might resume operations of its Truscon Steel plant in Cleveland the day following. The company said it had withheld opening plans in Cleveland pending assurance of protection by local authorities.

Republic announced last night that "nearly 10,000 Republic employes of the Mahoning valley plants, who had been out of work since the begining of the strike, have now returned to their jobs."

"This," the statement said, "is within 1,000 men of the normal for these plants at the operating rate prevailing in the industry."

CIO held a rally at Niles, O., at which John Owens, regional chief for Ohio, called upon union members to "carry the strike through to a finish." He called the four steel corporations who are involved in the strike—Republic, Sheet & Tube, Inland and Bethlehem—"union haters."

ENGINEER INJURED IN FALL AT YARDS

Fred Massie, 49, in Hospital After Drop form Running Board of Engine.

Fred Massie, 49, of West Center street, an Erie railroad engineer, suffered a fractured right wrist, a badly bruised hip and possible internal injuries this morning in a fall from the side of a switching locomotive in the Erie yards here.

Massie was taken to City hospital in the C. E. Curtis Co. ambulance. The attending physician said his condition is "fair," and that he is not believed to be seriously injured, unless internal injuries develop.

Erie railroad officials said Massie fell from a running-board along the boiler of the locomotive, ahead of the cab, where he apparently had gone to make an inspection. The locomotive had been used in switching cars this morning but was standing still at the time of Massie's fall.

Railroadmen said Massie was at a height of nine or 10 feet when he fell. They were unable to learn the cause of his fall but thought he might have slipped and lost his footing. H. T. Sheets, fireman, was in the engine cab when Massie fell, and called help.

AIMEE MAY TESTIFY IN MANN ACT TRIAL

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, June 30—Aimee Semple McPherson, pastor of Angelus temple, was a prospective defense witness today in the trial of John W. Hunt, charged with violation of the Mann act in bringing 17-year-old Delight Jewett here from Denver.

Hugh MacBeth, Hunt's Negro attorney, said he would subpoena Mrs. McPherson "for the purpose of showing the jury just how a religious worker reacts to manifestations of the divine spirit as Mr. Hunt has been struck by them."

Hunt testified yesterday he had illicit relations with the Denver high school girl. He also testified that Father Divine, Negro leader of the cult, had scolded him for his conduct with Miss Jewett and for entertaining the notion he was Jesus the Christ.

Mrs. McPherson said she had not been following the trial and could not indicate the nature of testimony she would give.

PARKER AND SON TO SERVE 6 AND 3 YEARS

Sentenced for Attempt To Wring Lindbergh Confession Out of Wendel.

By The Associated Press

NEWARK, N. J., June 30—Ellis Parker Sr., chief of the Burlington county detectives, was sentenced to six years in a federal penitentiary today and his son, Ellis Jr. to three years for plotting the kidnaping of Paul H. Wendel.

The Parkers were convicted a week ago today of conspiring to seize and torture Wendel, former Trenton lawyer, to obtain from him a false confession to the Lindbergh baby kidnaping. The "confession," investigated by two grand juries, delayed the execution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann three days.

The jury, which heard testimony for nine weeks, recommended leniency and Federal Judge William Clark, who imposed the sentences today, said then the recommendation would carry "great weight."

The younger Parker, 26, stood before the bar with arms folded while the elder Parker, because of his 65 years, was permitted to sit in a chair as Judge Clark imposed the prison penalties.

TAX ON INTANGIBLES HELD PARTLY INVALID

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 30—The Ohio supreme court held unconstitutional today a section of the intangible tax law which gives to the state tax commission authority to grant immunity from collection of taxes on certain conditions.

The ruling was made in affirming a lower court judgment for $333,318 in delinquent taxes and penalties against the estate of Carrie Jacobs Brown of Stark county.

"That part of the intangible tax act of Ohio, giving the tax commission of Ohio power to issue a certificate of immunity from collection of omitted taxes for 1926 to 1930, inclusive, upon condition that the taxpayer fully comply with the personal property tax law in 1932," the court said, "is unconstitutional and void for the reason that it confers special benefits upon delinquent taxpayers not enjoyed by non-delinquent taxpayers charged with the same obligation."

Miss Brown died in 1931 and an inventory of her estate disclosed that she had not made a return on her taxable intangible property for the period of 1926 to 1930. The county auditor assessed taxes and penalties for the five years, and the executors of the estate obtained a certificate of immunity from the tax commission.

The suit to compel payment of the taxes and interests was begun by Clarence J. Hostetter, a taxpayer.

SEVERAL HURT IN RIOT

CLEVELAND, June 30—Several persons were injured, women's dresses were ripped apart and one man was arrested today in a clash between AFL and CIO garment workers at the plant of the Stone Knitting Mills Co. here.

IN WEDDING RITES

Rev. Endicott Peabody (above) headmaster of Groton school, conducted the wedding rites today uniting Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. and Miss Ethel duPont.

in a countryside covered with estates of members of that family. That area, just north of Wilmington, was the scene of all today's events.

State police guarded the strategic highways and lanes and a detachment of regular army soldiers moved in from Fort duPont to keep watchful eyes on the scene while the President was about.

Officials said the duty of the soldiers was to supplement the protective efforts of regular White House secret service and state police officers.

The bridal couple began the day already rehearsed in their lines and well-showered with attentions that ranged from hundreds of simple gifts to elaborate parties, the last of which was last night. Their schedule included:

A bridal party luncheon at which all members of the immediate families would meet for the first time. This was scheduled for the home of a bridesmaid, Mrs. C. Porter Schutt, near the estate of Ethel's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene duPont.

312 Guests Invited

The brief, single-ring Episcopal wedding ceremony, with 342 guests invited. This was to be performed by the rector, Rev. Frederick Ashton, who christened Ethel, and by Rev. Endicoty Peabody of Groton school, Mass., who has married two other Roosevelt sons, Elliott and James.

A reception for 1,300 guests by the bride's parents, and last, the dash for a mysterious honeymoon destination, said variously to be in Europe, at a friend's summer home, or possibly aboard a yacht.

Careful precautions were taken to see that everything ran on schedule, that there were no gate-crashers, and that guests were adequately entertained.

Arriving guests, met by cars arranged for by the bride's father, carried engraved "admit" cards. These were blue for the wedding and white for the reception. They were honored by officers stationed at the closed country lanes leading to church and home.

Secret service men stood guard at Owls Nest, the bride's home, where glittering array of wedding presents were on display for the first time.

Among the gifts were a huge, silver platter, inscribed on the bottom, "to Ethel duPont from the cabinet," a nest of four tables in rich wood, sparkling Steuben glass ware, rich linens, heavy old candlesticks and lovely china.

There were many simple objects. A sterling silver cigaret service was a miniature copy of an old-fashioned bacon box. An egg boiler heated by an oil lamp and large enough for four eggs was made in heavy silver plate.

The gifts bore no tags disclosing the givers—that information was to be available to reception guests from attendants.

President and Mrs. Roosevelt sent the flat-silver—all possible pieces—as they have done for each of their children.

NEVADA MAN PLEADS GUILTY TO CHARGE

George Kinsley, 42, of Nevada, accused of drunken driving after allegedly leaving the scene of an accident, pleaded guilty in municipal court yesterday to a charge of driving while intoxicated. Sentence was withheld pending settlement of damages, Municipal Judge Martin said.

Kinsley was taken into custody at Nevada by Deputy Sheriff Willis, after he allegedly drove away from the scene of a collision on Wyandot road, north of Brush Ridge. The accident occurred when a car driven by Kinsley struck the rear of an automobile driven by Edward H. Ladd of 214 Pearl street. The car went into a ditch, overturned and plunged into a concrete abutment. Mr. and Mrs. Ladd and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Yochem of 190 West Church street, all occupants of the Ladd car, suffered minor injuries.

BRITAIN MAY DROP WAR ISOLATION PLAN

By The Associated Press

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain called the British cabinet into session today to consider possible abandonment of the entire "hands off Spain" non-intervention scheme, in the face of determined German and Italian opposition to his Spanish war policy.

Both Germany and Italy remained firm in their rejection of a British-French proposal for taking over the entire naval patrol of Spain's coasts to prevent arms and men from reaching either side in the Spanish conflict.

Germany and Italy recalled warships from the patrol last week.

COW WINS CHASE

Deputies Chase Stray Bovine into Garden.

Deputy Sheriffs Gene Geissler and W. H. Willis turned cowboy for a few minutes this morning as they attempted to capture a stray cow near the Sawyer Sanitarium on the southwest edge of the city. At noon today the cow had not been identified and was browsing peacefully in a garden in rear of the sanitarium.

A chase by Deputy Geissler after the deputies arrived on the scene about 11 a. m. resulted in the cow leaping a fence from the pasture into the garden.

MARION POSTOFFICE EMPLOYE RETIRES

the "wrong box" then just as it does today when there is an occasional slight mixup in street addresses. Mr. Davis moved with the force from the West Center street address to the more commodious quarters in the Masonic temple and later into the present spacious and comfortable offices at the corner of State and Church streets.

Business Grew With City

When the office moved into the Masonic temple, business was growing and Marion as a city was getting in closer contact with the rest of the world by means of the telephone, Mr. Davis recalls. Uncle Sam installed a telephone in the postoffice, but in too close proximity to the postmaster's desk, so the "boys" clubbed together and had a telephone placed in the temple basement for their own private use, he recalled.

Mr. Davis has seen the business in the postoffice grow with the years, witnessed the inauguration of the rural delivery and saw it grow from a job that kept the carrier and his trusty horse out all day and sometimes half the night, to the present motorized delivery, saw the airmail delivery in daily use and numerous other steps of progress with which the Marion office has kept pace.

Mr. Davis' first job was that of substitute carrier, a position he held for three years. When he substituted for Cass Wilson he had the title of "mounted carrier" and delivered the mail to patrons on the edge of town by way of horse and wagon and when the streets permitted, on a bicycle.

He was appointed clerk July 1, 1902, working in the mailing division. In 1916 he was appointed a special clerk in the mailing division where he worked until 1932 when he was transferred to the register division, where he remained until his retirement.

Active in Masonry

Mr. Davis was born June 21, 1872, and is retiring at the age of 65. He is a member of Epworth M. E. church and is active in Masonic lodge work. He is a past master of Marion Lodge No. 70, F. and A. M., a past high priest of Marion Chapter No. 62, R. S. M., a past illustrious master of Marion Council No. 22, R. S. M., a member of Scioto Consistory in Columbus, and in Odd Fellowship is a past noble grand of Kosciusko Lodge No. 58, a past chief patriarch of Mizpah Encampment, and a past commander of Canton Marion.

His first marriage was to Emma A. Reed of Marion, and following her death he married Frances A. Jacobs. He has two children, Mrs. Gladys Davis Keller of East George street, and Walter Davis at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis plan to spend the summer visiting relatives and friends in Michigan for the remainder of the summer and next fall, and later may decide to spend the winter in Florida.

Succeeding Mr. Davis in the register department will be Orla Wetzel of 314 Willow street, who is on the postoffice staff as a substitute clerk. Miss Rachael Callahan of 192 South Prospect street, who has been working on social security tabulations at the postoffice will go on as a substitute clerk.

on approving them for submission. The blanket road project would involve considerable new work and would also include other road projects now under way, Mr. Nesper said.

The road project, he said, will include work on road shoulders, berm, ditches, drains, bridges and possibly surface treating or patching.

Joint Project Under Way

The combined garage and hospital project is partially submitted already, plans for the garage having been sent to Washington. John H. Moore, Marion architect is at present working out specifications for the hospital.

The garage is to be contructed on the site of the 50-year-old building in rear of the jail. The present building is used by the sheriff for official cars but has been used in the past variously as a dog pound, boiler room and stable.

The new building would accommodate six cars, the sheriff's, the engineer's and the commissioners'. It would be a one-story brick building, warmly heated so as to permit the sheriff and his deputies to start their cars immediately when emergency calls are received.

The tuberculosis hospital would be placed in the old east building at the county home. Remodeling would include construction of wards, screened porches and offices. Commissioners said if the project materializes it will reduce the county's annual tuberculosis bill from $15,000 to $10,000 or $7,500 provided the number of cases does not increase materially.

It would be used only for bedfast patients.

A new refrigerator is featured by a bin for vegetables that are kept at a temperature of about 45 degrees.

amount in this fund in any one year.

At present, the revenue from the $1 a gallon liquor tax and profits of the liquor department are earmarked for pensions.

"In other words," Sen. Taylor said, "this committee should investigate the advisability of adopting a policy of appropriating only the money which is on hand instead of the present policy of appropriating in anticipation — a policy inconsistent with our social security and unemployment insurance laws."

The committee also suggested an investigation of the advisability of appropriating a specific amount for pensions in order that a too rapid expansion might be discouraged.

Other suggestions which the committee advised looking into included:

A retrenchment program "because of the extreme concern as to the future amount the taxpayers of Ohio are going to be called upon to provide (the committee remarked that biennial expenditures have increased from an original anticipated peak of $6,000,000 to $60,000,000 and "we are now faced with the recommendation of $72,000,000 for the coming biennium, which amount, if figured in terms of taxes, would equal approximately $20 per year per taxpayer family.")

"The growing tendency toward local option" to determine "the future revenue the state might be assured of receiving" from liquor profits and taxes.

Establishment of a bi-partisan commission to administer the aid for aged division.

Enactment of legislation to prevent a blanket executive increase in the allowance of awards to recipients without consent of the legislature in its regular session.

Investigation of operating expenses of the department of liquor control and division of aid for the aged and give their loyalty to the cause of temperance he emphasized the fact that there are certain facts in life that must be known and accepted. "One of these," he stated, "is that alcohol is a debauch, and another is that it has not yet been successfully proven that prohibition was a failure." In referring to the program theme in connection with the work of the council he said: "This is a continuous, never-ending flight which has its ups and downs, but must always be forward; our interest is not just ego-centered, desiring our cause to succeed, but the greater, more human interest for the good of society."

Investigation of persons receiving pensions who do not deserve them.

Informal talks were given by a number of guests.

SAILOR SOUGHT AS GIRL KILLER

$3,500 In Rewards Spurs Hunt for Degenerate Who Slew Three Children.

By The Associated Press

INGLEWOOD, Calif., June 30—A man, identified only as "Eddie the sailor" by police, became suspect No. 1 today in the search for the degenerate slayer of the three little Inglewood girls. Rewards totalling $3,500 spurred the hunt for the fiend's capture.

"Eddie the sailor," police learned, almost succeeded in luring two more girls into his automobile Saturday—the day Madeline Everett, 7, her sister Melba, 9, and Jeanette Marjorie Stephens, 8, were slain.

Lillian Popp, 11, told officers she and her cousin almost joined the three victims in what "Eddie the sailor" represented was going to be a rabbit hunt in the hills.

"When we reached the car, I kicked my cousin and reminded her, in whispers, what her mother had told her about going riding with a strange man," Lillian said. "So we didn't go, but Melba and Jeanette and Madeline got into the car with the man."

Authorities said the crimes were still far from solution.

They know the kidnapings and murders were the work of a sexual pervert. That was established definitely by the report of the county autopsy surgeon, who examined the bodies.

As law enforcement officers checked the whereabouts of every known perpetrator of a sexual crime, citizens cooperated in the manhunt by reporting the actions of every suspicious character in their neighborhoods.

Released after being subjected to rigorous questioning was a young man closely resembling the over-all clad workman who last Friday asked Olive Everett, sister of two of the slain girls, to accompany him on a rabbit hunt. He had a sailor's knot tatooed on his right arm. He wore a small, pointed mustache. Someone answering this general description, the authorities believe, is the man who lured the tots to their death with the promise of a rabbit hunt.

PRATT DENIES VOTE FRAUD ACCUSATIONS

Denies He Was With Former Assistant When "Steal" Allegedly Was Made.

By The Associated Press

IRONTON, O., June 30—County Auditor Pearl A. Pratt's denial of implication in any ballot tampering after the November election went into the record today at trial of Pratt and three other persons on charges of changing votes in the Lawrence county commissioner race.

Disagreeing with testimony of his former assistant, Dan C. Rapp, who was the state's principal witness, Pratt said he had no connection with the case and was not with Rapp at the courthouse when the "steal" is alleged to have taken place.

William C. Dickens, defeated Republican candidate for commissioner; Elizabeth Griffith, former county relief director; and Wade Webb, former deputy sheriff, are on trial with Pratt.

The state charges that on the Sunday after the election, the board of elections office was broken into and more than 200 ballots changed so that Dickens would win over Democrat Harry Banton on a recount. A common pleas court decision later gave the office to Banton, who since has died.

PIPE LINE BLASTED AS PLANTS REOPEN

the plants in Beaver Falls. A union member was fatally injured there Monday.

It was here at Canton that the steel strike began with barricades and picket lines after the corporation declined CIO's demand for a signed contract.

Tomorrow morning, at Indiana Harbor, Ind., more steel plants will open, the Inland Steel Co. announced. But CIO's Van A. Bittner, regional director there, said the union would "do everything possible to stop the plant from opening;" that 99 per cent of the 13,000 Inland Steel employes were members of CIO.

Both sides were silent concerning President Roosevelt's comment that he believed the majority of people's opinion of strikers and steel companies alike was well summarized in Shakespeare's line: "A plague on both your houses."

Hits at Extremists

White House spokesmen were quick to point out, however, that the President had not meant the comment as applicable to both sides in general, but rather to the extremists of both sides.

Youngstown Active

The Youngstown Steel district, busy and smoky once more, scarcely noticed last night when the first night-time change of shifts in five weeks took place. The Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. back on a three-shift basis for the first time since the mills reopened last week, changed shifts at 11 p. m. with only two pickets in sight.

Same policemen, deputy sheriffs and a group of militiamen watched as several hundred men entered or left the plant.

Sheriff's men reported early today the finding of two dynamite bombs on a grass plot near the "Stop 14" entrance to the Tube company's main works.

On other sections of the Youngstown strike front no pickets were visible; only guardsmen, watching their posts.

During the night the sprawling mills along the Mahoning river hummed. There was the noise of hissing steam and the ring of metal against metal.

Cleveland Plant May Open

Added to the announcement of Inland Steel's intention to reopen at Indiana Harbor tomorrow were reports that Republic Steel might resume operations of its Truscon Steel plant in Cleveland the day following. The company said it had withheld opening plans in Cleveland pending assurance of protection by local authorities.

Republic announced last night that "nearly 19,000 Republic employes of the Mahoning valley plants, who had been out of work since the begining of the strike, have now returned to their jobs."

"This," the statement said, "is within 1,000 men of the normal for these plants at the operating rate prevailing in the industry."

CIO held a rally at Niles, O., at which John Owens, regional chief for Ohio, called upon union members to "carry the strike through to a finish." He called the four steel corporations who are involved in the strike—Republic, Sheet & Tube, Inland and Bethlehem—"union haters."

ENGINEER INJURED IN FALL AT YARDS

Fred Massie, 49, in Hospital After Drop form Running Board of Engine.

Fred Massie, 49, of West Center street, an Erie railroad engineer, suffered a fractured right wrist, a badly bruised hip and possible internal injuries this morning in a fall from the side of a switching locomotive in the Erie yards here.

Massie was taken to City hospital in the C. E. Curtis Co. ambulance. The attending physician said his condition is "fair," and that he is not believed to be seriously injured, unless internal injuries develop.

Erie railroad officials said Massie fell from a running-board along the boiler of the locomotive, ahead of the cab, where he apparently had gone to make an inspection. The locomotive had been used in switching cars this morning but was standing still at the time of Massie's fall.

Railroadmen said Massie was at a height of nine or 10 feet when he fell. They were unable to learn the cause of his fall but thought he might have slipped and lost his footing. H. T. Sheets, fireman, was in the engine cab when Massie fell, and called help.

AIMEE MAY TESTIFY IN MANN ACT TRIAL

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, June 30—Aimee Semple McPherson, pastor of Angelus temple, was a prospective defense witness today in the trial of John W. Hunt, charged with violation of the Mann act in bringing 17-year-old Delight Jewett here from Denver.

Hugh MacBeth, Hunt's Negro attorney, said he would subpoena Mrs. McPherson "for the purpose of showing the jury just how a religious worker reacts to manifestations of the divine spirit as Mr. Hunt has been struck by them."

Hunt testified yesterday he had illicit relations with the Denver high school girl. He also testified that Father Divine, Negro leader of the cult, had scolded him for his conduct with Miss Jewett and for entertaining the notion he was Jesus the Christ.

Mrs. McPherson said she had not been following the trial and could not indicate the nature of testimony she would give.

PARKER AND SON TO SERVE 6 AND 3 YEARS

Sentenced for Attempt To Wring Lindbergh Confession Out of Wendel.

By The Associated Press

NEWARK, N. J., June 30—Ellis Parker Sr., chief of the Burlington county detectives, was sentenced to six years in a federal penitentiary today and his son, Ellis Jr. to three years for plotting the kidnaping of Paul H. Wendel.

The Parkers were convicted a week ago today of conspiring to seize and torture Wendel, former Trenton lawyer, to obtain from him a false confession to the Lindbergh baby kidnaping. The "confession," investigated by two grand juries, delayed the execution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann three days.

The jury, which heard testimony for nine weeks, recommended leniency and Federal Judge William Clark, who imposed the sentences today, said then the recommendation would carry "great weight."

The younger Parker, 26, stood before the bar with arms folded while the elder Parker, because of his 65 years, was permitted to sit in a chair as Judge Clark imposed the prison penalties.

TAX ON INTANGIBLES HELD PARTLY INVALID

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 30—The Ohio supreme court held unconstitutional today a section of the intangible tax law which gives to the state tax commission authority to grant immunity from collection of taxes on certain conditions.

The ruling was made in affirming a lower court judgment for $355,315 in delinquent taxes and penalties against the estate of Carrie Jacobs Brown of Stark county.

"That part of the intangible tax act of Ohio, giving the tax commission of Ohio power to issue a certificate of immunity from collection of omitted taxes for 1926 to 1930, inclusive, upon condition that the taxpayer fully comply with the personal property tax law in 1932," the court said, "is unconstitutional and void for the reason that it confers special benefits upon delinquent taxpayers not enjoyed by non-delinquent taxpayers charged with the same obligation."

Miss Brown died in 1931 and an inventory of her estate disclosed that she had not made a return on her taxable intangible property for the period of 1926 to 1930. The county auditor assessed taxes and penalties for the five years, and the executors of the estate obtained a certificate of immunity from the tax commission.

The suit to compel payment of the taxes and interests was begun by Clarence J. Hostetter, a taxpayer.

in a countryside covered with estates of members of that family. That area, just north of Wilmington, was the scene of all today's events.

State police guarded the strategic highways and lanes and a detachment of regular army soldiers moved in from Fort duPont to keep watchful eyes on the scene while the President was about.

Officials said the duty of the soldiers was to supplement the protective efforts of regular White House secret service and state police officers.

The bridal couple began the day already rehearsed in their lines and well-showered with attentions that ranged from hundreds of simple gifts to elaborate parties, the last of which was last night. Their schedule included:

A bridal party luncheon at which all members of the immediate families would meet for the first time. This was scheduled for the home of a bridesmaid, Mrs. C. Porter Schutt, near the estate of Ethel's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene duPont.

312 Guests Invited

The brief single-ring Episcopal wedding ceremony, with 312 guests invited. This was to be performed by the rector, Rev. Frederick Ashton, who christened Ethel, and by Rev. Endicott Peabody of Groton school, Mass., who has married two other Roosevelt sons, Elliott and James.

A reception for 1,200 guests, by the bride's parents, and last, the dash for a mysterious honeymoon destination, said variously to be in Europe, at a friend's summer home, or possibly aboard a yacht.

Careful precautions were taken to see that everything ran on schedule, that there were no gate-crashers, and that guests were adequately entertained.

Arriving guests, met by cars arranged for by the bride's father, carried engraved "admit" cards. These were blue for the wedding and white for the reception. They were honored by officers stationed at the closed country lanes leading to church and home.

Secret service men stood guard at Owls Nest, the bride's home, where glittering array of wedding presents were on display for the first time.

Among the gifts were a huge, silver platter, inscribed on the bottom, "to Ethel duPont from the cabinet," a nest of four tables in rich wood, sparkling Steuben glass ware, rich linens, heavy old candlesticks and lovely china.

There were many simple objects. A sterling silver cigaret service was a miniature copy of an old-fashioned bacon box. An egg boiler heated by an oil lamp and large enough for four eggs was made in heavy silver plate.

The gifts bore no tags disclosing the givers—that information was to be available to reception guests from attendants.

President and Mrs. Roosevelt sent the flat-silver—all possible pieces—as they have done for each of their children.

NEVADA MAN PLEADS GUILTY TO CHARGE

George Kinsley, 42, of Nevada, accused of drunken driving after allegedly leaving the scene of an accident, pleaded guilty in municipal court yesterday to a charge of driving while intoxicated. Sentence was withheld pending settlement of damages, Municipal Judge Martin said.

Kinsley was taken into custody at Nevada by Deputy Sheriff Willis, after he allegedly drove away from the scene of a collision on Wyandot road, north of Brush Ridge. The accident occurred when a car driven by Kinsley struck the rear of an automobile driven by Edward H. Ladd of 214 Pearl street. The car went into a ditch, overturned and plunged into a concrete abutment. Mr. and Mrs. Ladd and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Yochem of 190 West Church street, all occupants of the Ladd car, suffered minor injuries.

BRITAIN MAY DROP WAR ISOLATION PLAN

By The Associated Press

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain called the British cabinet into session today to consider possible abandonment of the entire "hands off Spain" non-intervention scheme, in the face of determined German and Italian opposition to his Spanish war policy.

Both Germany and Italy remained firm in their rejection of a British-French proposal for taking over the entire naval patrol of Spain's coasts to prevent arms and men from reaching either side in the Spanish conflict.

Germany and Italy recalled warships from the patrol last week.

COW WINS CHASE

Deputies Chase Stray Bovine Into Garden.

Deputy Sheriffs Gene Geissler and W. H. Willis turned cowboy for a few minutes this morning as they attempted to capture a stray cow near the Sawyer Sanitarium on the southwest edge of the city. At noon today the cow had not been identified and was browsing peacefully in a garden in rear of the sanitarium.

A chase by Deputy Geissler after the deputies arrived on the scene about 11 a. m. resulted in the cow leaping a fence from the pasture into the garden.

MARION POSTOFFICE EMPLOYE RETIRES

the wrong box" then just as it does today when there is an occasional slight mixup in street addresses. Mr. Davis moved with the force from the West Center street address to the more commodious quarters in the Masonic temple and later into the present spacious and comfortable offices at the corner of State and Church streets.

Business Grew With City

When the office moved into the Masonic temple, business was growing and Marion as a city was getting in closer contact with the rest of the world by means of the telephone, Mr. Davis recalls. Uncle Sam installed a telephone in the postoffice, but in too close proximity to the postmaster's desk, so the "boys" clubbed together and had a telephone placed in the temple basement for their own private use, he recalled.

Mr. Davis has seen the business in the postoffice grow with the years, witnessed the inauguration of the rural delivery and saw it grow from a job that kept the carrier and his trusty horse out all day and sometimes half the night, to the present motorized delivery, saw the airmail delivery in daily use and numerous other steps of progress with which the Marion office has kept pace.

Mr. Davis' first job was that of substitute carrier, a position he held for three years. When he substituted for Cass Wilson he had the title of "mounted carrier" and delivered the mail to patrons on the edge of town by way of horse and wagon and when the streets permitted, on a bicycle.

He was appointed clerk July 1, 1902, working in the mailing division. In 1916 he was appointed a special clerk in the mailing division where he worked until 1932 when he was transferred to the register division, where he remained until his retirement.

Active in Masonry

Mr. Davis was born June 21, 1872, and is retiring at the age of 65. He is a member of Epworth M. E. church and is active in Masonic lodge work. He is a past master of Marion Lodge No. 70, F. and A. M., a past high priest of Marion Chapter No. 62, R. S. M., a past illustrious master of Marion Council No. 22, R. S. M., a member of Scioto Consistory in Columbus, and in Odd Fellowship is a past noble grand of Kosciusko Lodge No 55, a past chief patriarch of Mizpah Encampment, and a past commander of Canton Marion.

His first marriage was to Emma A. Reed of Marion, and following her death he married Frances A. Jacobs. He has two children, Mrs. Gladys Davis Keller of East George street, and Walter Davis at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis plan to spend the summer visiting relatives and friends in Michigan for the remainder of the summer and next fall, and later may decide to spend the winter in Florida.

Succeeding Mr. Davis in the register department will be Orla Wetzel of 314 Willow street, who is on the postoffice staff as a substitute clerk. Miss Rachael Callahan of 195 South Prospect street, who has been working on social security tabulations at the postoffice will go on as a substitute clerk.

on approving them for submission. The blanket road project would involve considerable new work and would also include other road projects now under way, Mr. Nesper said.

The road project, he said, will include work on road shoulders, berm, ditches, drains, bridges and possibly surface treating or patching.

Joint Project Under Way

The combined garage and hospital project is partially submitted already, plans for the garage having been sent to Washington, John H. Moore, Marion architect is at present working out specifications for the hospital.

The garage is to be contructed on the site of the 50-year-old building in rear of the jail. The present building is used by the sheriff for official cars but has been used in the past variously as a dog pound, boiler room and stable.

The new building would accommodate six cars, the sheriff's, the engineer's and the commissioners'. It would be a one-story brick building, warmly heated so as to permit the sheriff and his deputies to start their cars immediately when emergency calls are received.

The tuberculosis hospital would be placed in the old east building at the county home. Remodeling would include construction of wards, screened porches and offices. Commissioners said if the project materializes it will reduce the county's annual tuberculosis bill from $15,000 to $10,000 or $7,500 provided the number of cases does not increase materially.

It would be used only for bedfast patients.

A new refrigerator is featured by a bin for vegetables that are kept at a temperature of about 43 degrees.

At present, the revenue from the $1 a gallon liquor tax and profits of the liquor department are earmarked for pensions.

"In other words," Sen. The committee also suggested an investigation of the advisability of appropriating a specific amount for pensions in order that a too rapid expansion might be discouraged.

Other suggestions which the committee advised looking into included:

A retrenchment program "because of the extreme concern as to the future amount the taxpayers of Ohio are going to be called upon to provide (the committee remarked that biennial expenditures have increased from an original anticipated peak of $6,000,000 to $60,000,000 and "we are now faced with the recommendation of $72,000,000 for the coming biennium, which amount, if figured in terms of taxes, would equal approximately $20 per year per taxpayer family.")

"The growing tendency toward local option" to determine "the future revenue the state might be assured of receiving" from liquor profits and taxes.

Establishment of a bi-partisan commission to administer the aid for aged division.

Enactment of legislation to prevent a blanket executive increase in the allowance of awards to recipents without consent of the legislature in its regular session.

Investigation of operating expenses of the department of liquor control and division of aid for the aged and give their loyalty to the cause of temperance he emphasized the fact that there are certain facts in life that must be known and accepted. "One of these," he stated, "is that alcohol is a debauch, and another is that it has not yet been successfully proven that prohibition was a failure." In referring to the program theme in connection with the work of the council he said: "This is a continuous, never-ending flight which has its ups and downs, but must always be forward; our interest is not just ego-centered, desiring our cause to succeed, but the greater, more human-interest for the good of society."

Investigation of persons receiving pensions who do not deserve them.

Informal talks were given by a number of guests.

30-Day Ocean Voyage Ahead of Marion Man

A 30-day ocean voyage and a 1,000-mile journey by train through South Africa await Harry Dee of 207 East Columbia street, manager of Kline's department store, who will leave Friday on his first visit to his native land since coming to America 12 years ago. The primary purpose of his several thousand mile trip is to visit his mother at Johannesburg.

The trip will begin from New York on July 9 when Mr. Dee will sail for England. After a few days in London he will embark for Capetown. The boat trips will require a month. At Capetown he will go by train across the open country, much like our western plains, for 1,000 miles to Johannesburg in the heart of the Transvaal, rich in diamonds and gold. Mr. Dee is uncertain when he will return, possibly not for several months.

The story of how Mr. Dee came to choose America as his home is one of chance. About 12 years ago, seeking a position in the importing and exporting business, he came to New York in an attempt to obtain an agency for an American exporting company. The agency was to have been located in South Africa.

Got Store Job

"Somehow the plan didn't materialize," Mr. Dee said. "By chance I secured a job with Gimbels in New York as a department manager."

He was with them for two and a half years and was with the Bachrach Bros. department store for a similar period. He then joined the Kline system, working at Youngstown, and coming to Marion three years ago.

Mr. Dee is enthusiastic about his new country and regards it as one of the finest in the world.

"I've certainly enjoyed my stay here and it is a wonderful country. Any young fellow can get ahead here and the sky's the limit here. There are no checks, no unfair restrictions to hold him down and it all depends on the individual how far he can go."

Dr. Dee was brought up in the atmosphere of the clothing business, his father operating a department store in Johannesburg for several years until his death.

South Africa is far more civilized than most people realize, Mr. Dee said. Schools, government and society all are of the highest type. There is an unusual native problem confronting the whites in that the whites are considerably outnumbered, he said. Missionaries and government agencies are attempting to raise the standard of living of the natives, however.

Knows Several Languages

The conglomeration of European and native nationalities makes it necessary for a business man or average citizen there to know several languages. Mr. Dee knows Dutch and speaks it fluently. He also speaks four of the most prominent native dialects, Zulu, Changan, S'Susutu and Smahallil.

The country is on a high level and is considered one of the most healthful in the world. The climate is temperate throughout the year, being slightly warmer than here, he said.

Mrs. Dee will visit her parents in Hazelton, Pa., during Mr. Dee's absence. Mr. Dee's mother, Mrs. Rose Dee and three sisters live in Johannesburg. He has no other relatives in the United States.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE . . .

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk, and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

County's Part in CCC Program Is Reviewed

As plans are going forward for the quarterly enrollment in the federal government's civilian conservation corps, Walter Guthrie, deputy selecting agent for Marion county, today reviewed briefly the CCC's history in connection with Marion county.

Since the first enrollment took place here on June 5, 1935, 683 youths from the county have joined the CCC, up to and including the last previous quarterly enrollment. That number is expected to go over the 700 mark, when the next enrollment is held early in July.

Of the 683 youths 530 were later discharged, 75 were rejected for various reasons either at Fort Knox, Ky., or at the receiving station and 78 still remain in CCC camps. Marion county youths have been sent to all of the 48 states with the CCC and many have requested their discharge to take outside employment, Guthrie pointed out.

Tracing the histories of the 530 youths who have served with the CCC and have been discharged, Guthrie reports that the largest number, 260, served their entire term of enrollment. The number that were discharged to accept private employment was 114, while 92 discharges were credited to desertions, 21 to misconduct, 13 to the refusal to work, 13 to injuries and illness and eight to unsatisfactory work. Two discharges were for insufficient service and death from an injury in camp.

Analyzing the age groups of those who were accepted for service in the CCC Guthrie points out that the largest number of the enrollees are 18 years old. Of the total number enrolled, 217 were 18, 212 were 19, 80 were 20, 45 were 17, and 45 were 21. Twenty-three youths were listed in each the 22 and 23 year age groups, 24 in 24, 22 in 23, 13 in 26, five in 25 and but one in 27, according to Guthrie's figures.

Although a definite quota and an enrollment date for the July enlistment have not yet been announced, applications are being accepted now in Guthrie's office at the relief headquarters building on South Prospect street. Youths who wish to join the CCC may make application at his office between 9 a. m. and 3 p. m. Their applications will be kept on file and they will be notified immediately when the enrollment date is announced.

Lillian Directs Unpacking of Family Limousine

"SUCH CORDIAL hospitality!" Lillian gibed as she and I came up to the Underwood limousine where Dicky was asking helplessly if Williams and his nephews supposed she wanted all the housekeeping equipment taken off.

"Suppose I say I do?" she went on, wrinkling an impudent nose at my husband, her stanch friend since his boyhood when she put him in her debt forever by a royal sacrifice to save his name and career. "What are you going to do about it?"

"Obey your orders meticulously, Madame," Dicky said, spreading his hands with a flourish.

"Then I'll be generous," she said. "Madge, is there any thing in my traveling equipment which would help you instead of hinder you?"

"Not a thing," I told her. "These camps are adequately equipped."

Gives Instructions.

"Then," she said, "we'll store it all in the trunk, except the portable refrigerator. That has some dabs of perishable supplies that you possibly can use. Now, if you'll give me your cars and your hands, I'll sort these out and tell you where to put them.

"Just remember that the luggage of the girls and myself goes over to the Point cabin; my husband's in the one where he now is eating, and where you also can park the refrigerator, and all the household stuff goes in the trunk. If you'll take out the bags, I'll call them out, and you can make three piles of them."

She was like a military commander in action for the next five minutes, and when she had finished, the trunk was repacked, Dicky was taking Harry's luggage to the nearest camp, and Williams and the boys were carrying Lillian's bags and those of the girls to the Point camp. As Lillian and I started to follow them, I turned back with a final injunction to Dicky.

"Please tell the girls that when they have finished ironing they are to come over to the Point camp to dress. All their luggage will be over there except those dress boxes they took with them. Williams can bring them over."

Madge Is Irked

"Aye, aye, Captain," Dicky said, bringing up his hand in a mocking salute. I was glad Williams and the boys were too far ahead to see the gesture, for there was a bit of ridicule for my "fussiness," as my husband terms it, in his tone and gesture which stung me a bit, even though experience should have rendered me callous to the criticism.

"I would suggest, Dicky-bird," Lillian drawled, and I knew that she had sprung full-panoplied to my defense, "that you make your own belongings out of the Point camp pronto, as it will be filled shortly with ladies, old and young, in every stage of dress and undress."

"I'll be right over," he promised, with all mockery absent from his voice. I pressed Lillian's arm gratefully as we started toward the Point camp.

"Lion tamer!" I said, affectionately.

"One has to have some excuse for being in the world," she retorted. "And I do want to get him out of the way as soon as possible, so we can have our chat. The girls will pay no attention to us whatever while they're primping. We can sit on the veranda and settle the problems of the universe' as Dicky and Harry accuse us of doing without fear of disturbance. I take it we'd better get dressed and out of the way immediately or sooner."

What About Collegians?

"Yes, but there's one thing I want to ask you right away, before the girls get over," I told her.

"I'm all ears," she said, sitting down on a nearby log and motioning me to a seat beside her.

"It won't take long enough for me to sit," I told her, smiling. "I just wanted to ask you if you particularly wanted to see the Canadian college boys, of whom Marion and Carolyn were talking."

"Heavens, no!" she ejaculated fervently. "We had 'em served for breakfast, lunch and dinner at the last place we stopped. They were nice boys—but—I guess Harry and I are getting old. They bored us to tears, and we rejoiced mightily when we left them behind. I cautioned Marion against letting them know where we were going, although, of course, she gave them our permanent address."

"Marion obeyed your caution," I said, "but didn't you hear Carolyn tell Marion that she had given them a 'teeny weeny hint'?"

"No!" Lillian exclaimed. "She didn't! The little devil! That means we'll have them down here, bag and baggage. They were really quite smitten."

"It doesn't mean any such thing, now that I know you're willing to have them side-tracked," I told her.

FLAME TRAIL

BY MARIE DE NERVAUD

(Copyright, 1937, Marie de Nervaud)

SYNOPSIS: When Kay Crandon's Lazy Nine ranch house and barns burn mysteriously, Josh Hastings—who wants to buy the flaming ranch and marry Kay—insists her to the Flying Six. She refuses, distrusting him, but young sister Babs and Aunt Kate go. Kay plans to rebuild, but finds the insurance money has to go on the mortgage. Ted Gaynor, a puncher Kay hired impulsively, stirs the outfit to cut its own lumber and rebuild without pay. He warns her against Hastings. Kay is on her way to buy the only available timber land when a Hastings puncher rides up, lassoes her and ropes her securely.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

Cat And Mouse

THE man's gaze rested on Kay's bound ankles. Stooping suddenly, he tested the knots. He gripped her ankles with a firm hold for a moment, then laughed as he released them and rose.

"Cut out that 'how-dare-you' stuff, Cutie," he warned. "It's my turn to set the tone of this meeting. You've high-hatted me just once too often." His mouth twisted, and he laughed again.

"Don't you worry! I ain't going to hurt you—just give you a little lesson about being too high and mighty with Scrap Johnson."

Suddenly dropping to his knees beside her, he held Kay in an iron grip, his arm around her shoulder. Pulling his other hand under her chin, he forced her to look at him.

"No good writhing that way, Girlie." His grip tightened. "You're cute as hell when you're mad, but I'm going to give you time to cool off some. I've got something more important to do before I give you that lesson. Here's a sample, though."

Bending down, he deliberately kissed her on the lips, then sprang to his feet as he released her. Every ounce of color drained from Kay's face. She bit her lip until it bled to keep from crying out.

"Too bad I can't stop for more right now, but I've got to get in and see Old Man Warren." He laughed again as Kay started.

"I don't know what it's all about." Scrap Johnson went on, enjoying the consternation that shone in Kay's eyes, "but Josh Hastings came ratin' down to the corral, and ordered me to keep you from getting to Old Man Warren's till I'd landed an option on the south ridge of the Bitter Root. Sounds crazy, but orders is orders."

Kay felt her heart turn sick. For the moment she forgot her own predicament in the fear that all her dreams for the ranch were doomed. And through her own stupidity! She must do something before it was too late!

She saw in a flash that her only hope lay in using this man as a tool, and keeping him from carrying out Hastings' orders.

Under all her rage and disgust at the indignity that had been put upon her, Kay was firmly convinced Scrap Johnson wouldn't dare do her any actual harm. He knew that his life wouldn't be worth a nickel if he did.

He was taking cruel enjoyment in playing with her as a cat plays with a mouse. And he was probably banking on her pride to keep her from telling. Instead of flouting him as she had, she must be more clever!

Kay Attempts Wile

"It's not very complimentary to have you leave me for an 'option,' whatever that is." Kay forced herself to a half smile, as she gazed up at him with innocently round eyes.

A flush spread over Scrap Johnson's sallow face and his jaw dropped as though he couldn't believe his eyes of his ears. He looked comically uncertain.

"What's the idea of stringing me?"

"I'm not stringing you." She glanced significantly at her ankles and wrists. "You're the one who's stringing me! Doesn't it strike you that you might get on better without these caveman methods?"

"That so? Well, we'll put it to a test. Suppose you give me a kiss?"

No effort of will could keep Kay from recoiling with an involuntary shudder of disgust, as he leaned over her.

"Ha! Trying the Delilah stuff, eh?" He straightened up with a sneering laugh. "Well, we'll talk that over later?" He looked about. "Kind of bad place to leave you."

Stooping, he picked Kay up bodily and, in spite of her struggles, carried her about 50 yards to the lea of a coulee that dipped down in the mesa. Without a word, he dumped her there and started back for his horse. Then, as an after-thought, he came back, pulled Kay's bandanna from her neck and bound it tightly about her mouth.

"Don't be lonesome, Cutie, I'll be back before long," he called mockingly over his shoulder as he mounted and rode off.

Ted Gaynor paused as he was saddling his horse to start the long ride to his home, to arrange for moving his mother and sister to their new quarters.

He glanced down toward Kay's log cabin. On impulse he left his horse and went down to it. He knocked and received no response. Finding the door locked, he made for the bunk house on the run. As he sprang up the steps, he nearly collided with Seth.

"Hullo!" Seth exclaimed in surprise. "I thought you were on your way long ago!"

"Something's got me worried," Ted explained. "I tried to find Kay, but she's off somewhere."

"I saw her start out on Flicker about a half hour ago. What's on your mind?"

"I don't think she ought to let any grass grow under her feet before nailing that option," Ted declared. "As far as I can see, that's the only available timber there is, and we ought to make sure there's no slip up."

"Hell's belle, there can't be any slip up. Why Old Man Warren'll be tickled pink to get rid of it."

"Just the same, I'd be a lot easier to know that it was all sewed up." Ted looked from Seth to two of the boys who had come up. "Have any of you fellows got any cash?"

"Sure," Seth answered. "Why?"

"Because if we can scrape up $25, I'll go in and make a first payment on the option in Kay's name, so there can't be any chance of her losing it."

"I can't see as there's all that rush about it," Seth observed. "Still and all, there's no harm in getting that out of the way. It would be kind of a nice surprise for Kay to find it all attended to." He pulled out a roll of bills and counted $17.

"How about chipping in?" He cocked an eye at the other two, who readily complied.

"Go to it, son. If you've got a hunch that way." Seth handed Ted the money. "Bring that option back and we'll give it to Kay this evening."

"I'll do that," Ted promised, putting the wad of bills and silver dollars in his pocket. "I'll start off for home after supper."

Ted dickers with Old Man Warren for the timberland, tomorrow.

Draft Horses To Vie for Pulling Honors July 4th

A matched team of gray horses owned by Mr. and Mrs. Dick Nichols of Westerville, O., are among the teams from several states entered in the contest to be staged at the fairgrounds Sunday, July 4. The horses are shown in the photograph above pulling on a weighted sled used in the contests.

Holiday Attraction Arranged at Fairgrounds; Thirty Teams Already Entered.

A horse pulling contest that holds promise of being an enlarged version of the show that attracted more than 5,000 persons to the Marion county fairgrounds last year when the first contest of its kind was held here in many years will be one of the July 4 attractions for residents of Marion and vicinity.

The contest, in which more than 30 teams already have been entered, will be staged at the fairgrounds here under joint sponsorship of the fair board and the Horse Pulling Association of Ohio, Inc., of which Ray Hennesey of Bellefontaine is secretary.

The comeback in horse pulling contests under Hennesey's guidance was in its infancy when the contest was staged in Marion last year. The few contests last year drew such large crowds that he has booked a series of events for Ohio this year. The July 4 contest is one of two visits he will make to Marion, another pull for teams driven by boys and girls being scheduled for the Marion county fair.

The July 4 program will get under way at 1:30 p. m. with a parade of horses in front of the grandstand. This will be followed by eliminations and finals in both the heavy and lightweight divisions into which the teams are divided to properly handicap the heavier teams.

The contests are operated by hitching each team to a sled loaded with weights. The team pulling the heavy load the greatest distance is declared winner.

The Marion contest Sunday is the fifth in the state this year. The last event was held at Greenville on June 27, and the next one following Marion will be held on Monday, July 5, the day following the contest here, at Coshocton.

Teams entered in the series of contests represent several states.

In Ohio History

(From the J. H. Galbraith collection of Ohio histories, written for The Associated Press.)

ELECTROCUTION.

The law providing that the execution of the death penalty in Ohio must be by electricity, was one of several unusual ones enacted under the administration of Gov. Asa B. Bushnell, and mainly through his influence.

Since 1885, all executions—hanging being the prescribed method—had taken place within the walls of the penitentiary. The last execution there by hanging was on April 29, 1896.

The first execution by electricity took place on the night of April 21, 1897, and excited much public interest. The only state that had adopted the method up to that time was New York, and before Ohio adopted it a commission visited New York prison where the apparatus used was to be seen, and made a report on the experience with its use there.

A Franklin Institute scientist in Philadelphia has constructed radio apparatus small enough to be carried into the upper air by four small balloons to count and automatically record cosmic rays.

Lillian Directs Unpacking of Family Limousine

"SUCH CORDIAL hospitality!" Lillian cited as she and I came up to the Underwood limousine where Dicky was asking helplessly if Williams and his nephews supposed she wanted all the housekeeping equipment taken off.

"Suppose I say I do?" she went on, wrinkling an impudent nose at my husband, her stanch friend since his boyhood when she put him in her debt forever by a royal sacrifice to save his name and career. "What are you going to do about it?"

"Obey your orders meticulously, Madame," Dicky said, spreading his hands with a flourish.

"Then I'll be generous," she said, "Madge, is there any thing in my traveling equipment which would help you instead of hinder you?"

"Not a thing," I told her. "These camps are adequately equipped."

Gives Instructions.

"Then," she said, "we'll store it all in the trunk, except the portable refrigerator. That has some dabs of perishable supplies that you possibly can use. Now, if you'll give me your ears and your hands, I'll sort these out and tell you where to put them.

"Just remember that the luggage of the girls and myself goes over to the Point cabin; my husband's in the one where he now is eating, and where you also can park the refrigerator, and all the household stuff goes in the trunk. If you'll take out the bags, I'll call them out, and you can make three piles of them."

She was like a military commander in action for the next five minutes, and when she had finished, the trunk was repacked, Dicky was taking Harry's luggage to the nearest camp, and Williams and the boys were carrying Lillian's bags and those of the girls to the Point camp. As Lillian and I started to follow them, I turned back with a final injunction to Dicky.

"Please tell the girls that when they have finished ironing they are to come over to the Point camp to dress. All their luggage will be over there except those dress boxes they took with them. Williams can bring them over."

Madge Is Irked

"Aye, aye, Captain," Dicky said, bringing up his hand in a mocking salute. I was glad Williams and the boys were too far ahead to see the gesture, for there was a bit of ridicule for my "fussiness," as my husband terms it, in his tone and gesture which stung me a bit, even though experience should have rendered me callous to the criticism.

"I would suggest, Dicky-bird," Lillian drawled, and I knew that she had sprung full-panoplied to my defense, "that you snake your own belongings out of the Point camp pronto, as it will be filled shortly with ladies, old and young, in every stage of dress and undress."

"I'll be right over," he promised, with all mockery absent from his voice. I pressed Lillian's arm gratefully as we started toward the Point camp.

"Lion tamer!" I said affectionately.

"One has to have some excuse for being in the world," she retorted. "And I do want to get him out of the way as soon as possible, so we can have our chat. The girls will pay no attention to us whatever while they're primping. We can sit on the veranda and 'settle the problems of the universe' as Dicky and Harry accuse us of doing without fear of disturbance. I take it we'd better get dressed and out of the way, immediately or sooner."

What About Collegians?

"Yes, but there's one thing I want to ask you right away, before the girls get over," I told her.

"I'm all ears," she said, sitting down on a nearby log and motioning me to a seat beside her.

"It won't take long enough for me to sit," I told her, smiling. "I just wanted to ask you if you particularly wanted to see the Canadian college boys, of whom Marion and Carolyn were talking."

"Heavens, no!" she ejaculated fervently. "We had 'em served for breakfast, lunch and dinner at the last place we stopped. They were nice boys—but—I guess Harry and I are getting old. They bored us to tears, and we rejoiced mightily when we left them behind. I cautioned Marion against letting them know where we were going, although, of course, she gave them our permanent address."

"Marion obeyed your caution," I said, "but didn't you hear Carolyn tell Marion that she had given them a 'teeny weeny hint'?"

"No!" Lillian exclaimed. "She didn't! The little devil! That means we'll have them down here, bag and baggage. They were really quite smitten."

"It doesn't mean any such thing, now that I know you're willing to have them side-tracked," I told her.

She refuses, distrusting him, but young sister Babs and Aunt Kate go, Kay plans to rebuild but finds the insurance money has to go on the mortgage. CHAPTER THIRTEEN

Cat And Mouse

THE man's gaze rested on Kay's bound ankles. Stooping suddenly he tested the knots. He stripped her ankles with a firm hold for a moment, then laughed as he released them and rose.

"Cut out that 'how-dare-you' stuff, Cutie," he warned. "It's my turn to set the tone of this meeting. You've high-hatted me just once too often." His mouth twisted, and he laughed again.

"Don't you worry! I ain't going to hurt you—just give you a little lesson about being too high and mighty with Scrap Johnson."

Suddenly dropping to his knees beside her he held Kay in an iron grip his arm around her shoulder. Putting his other hand under her chin he forced her to look at him.

"No good writhing that way, Girlie." His grip tightened. "You're cute as hell when you're mad, but I'm going to give you time to cool off some. I've got something more important to do before I give you that lesson. Here's a sample, though."

Bending down, he deliberately kissed her on the lips, then sprang to his feet as he released her. Every ounce of color drained from Kay's face. She bit her lip until it bled to keep from crying out.

"Too bad I can't stop for more right now but I've got to get in and see Old Man Warren." He laughed again as Kay started.

"I don't know what it's all about," Scrap Johnson went on, enjoying the consternation that shone in Kay's eyes, "but Josh Hastings came rarin' down to the corral, and ordered me to keep you from getting to Old Man Warren's till I'd landed an option on the south ridge of the Bitter Root. Sounds crazy, but orders is orders."

Kay felt her heart turn sick. For the moment she forgot her own predicament in the fear that all her dreams for the ranch were doomed. And through her own stupidity! She must do something before it was too late!

She saw in a flash that her only hope lay in using this man as a tool, and keeping him from carrying out Hastings' orders.

Under all her rage and disgust at the indignity that had been put upon her, Kay was firmly convinced Scrap Johnson wouldn't dare do her any actual harm. He knew that his life wouldn't be worth a nickel if he did.

He was taking cruel enjoyment in playing with her as a cat plays with a mouse. And he was probably banking on her pride to keep her from telling. Instead of flouting him as she had, she must be more clever!

Kay Attempts Wile

"It's not very complimentary to have you leave me for an option," whatever that is," Kay forced herself to a half smile, as she gazed up at him with innocently round eyes.

A flush spread over Scrap Johnson's sallow face and his jaw dropped as though he couldn't believe his eyes of his ears. He looked comically uncertain.

"What's the idea of stringing me?"

"I'm not stringing you." She glanced significantly at her ankles and wrists. "You're the one who's stringing me! Doesn't it strike you that you might get on better without these cavemen methods?"

"That so? Well, we'll put it to a test. Suppose you give me a kiss?"

No effort of will could keep Kay from recoiling with an involuntary shudder of disgust, as he leaned over her.

"Ha! Trying the Delilah stuff, eh?" He straightened up with a sneering laugh. "Well we'll talk that over later?" He looked about. "Kind of bad place to leave you."

Stooping he picked Kay up bodily and, in spite of her struggles, carried her about 50 yards to the lea of a coulee that dipped down in the mesa. Without a word, he dumped her there and started back for his horse. Then as an after-thought, he came back, pulled Kay's bandanna from her neck and bound it tightly about her mouth.

"Don't be lonesome, Cutie, I'll be back before long," he called mockingly over his shoulder as he mounted and rode off.

Ted Gaynor paused as he was saddling his horse to start the long ride to his home, to arrange for moving his mother and sister to their new quarters.

He glanced down toward Kay's log cabin. On impulse he left his horse and went down to it. He knocked and received no response. Finding the door locked, he made for the bunk house on the run. As he sprang up the steps he nearly collided with Seth.

"Hullo!" Seth exclaimed in surprise. "I thought you were on your way long ago!"

"Something got me worried," Ted explained. "I tried to find Kay, but she's off somewhere."

"I saw her start out on Flicker about a half hour ago. What's on your mind?"

"I don't think she ought to let any grass grow under her feet before nailing that option," Ted declared. "As far as I can see, that's the only available timber there is, and we ought to make sure there's no slip up."

"Hell's bells, there can't be any slip up. Why Old Man Warren'll be tickled pink to get rid of it."

"Just the same, I'd be a lot easier to know that it was all sewed up." Ted looked from Seth to two of the boys who had come up. "Have any of you fellows got any cash?"

"Sure," Seth answered. "Why?"

"Because if we can scrape up $25, I'll go in and make a first payment on the option in Kay's name, so there can't be any chance of her losing it."

"I can't see as there's all that rush about it," Seth observed. "Still and all, there's no harm in getting that out of the way. It would be kind of a nice surprise for Kay to find it all attended to." He pulled out a roll of bills and counted $17.

"How about chipping in?" He cocked an eye at the other two, who readily complied.

"Go to it, son, if you've got a hunch that way." Seth handed Ted the money. "Bring that option back and we'll give it to Kay this evening."

"I'll do that," Ted promised, putting the wad of bills and silver dollars in his pocket. "I'll start off for home after supper."

Ted dickers with Old Man Warren for the timberland, tomorrow.

Draft Horses To Vie for Pulling Honors July 4th

A matched team of grays horses owned by Mr. and Mrs. Dick Nichols of Westerville, O., are among the teams from several states entered in the contest to be staged at the fairgrounds Sunday, July 4. The horses are shown in the photograph above pulling on a weighted sled used in the contests.

Holiday Attraction Arranged at Fairgrounds; Thirty Teams Already Entered.

A horse pulling contest that holds promise of being an enlarged version of the show that attracted more than 5,000 persons to the Marion county fairgrounds last year when the first contest of its kind was held here in many years will be one of the July 4 attractions for residents of Marion and vicinity.

The contest, in which more than 30 teams already have been entered, will be staged at the fairgrounds here under joint sponsorship of the fair board and the Horse Pulling Association of Ohio, Inc., of which Ray Hennesey of Bellefontaine is secretary.

The comeback in horse pulling contests under Hennesey's guidance was in its infancy when the contest was staged in Marion last year. The few contests last year drew such large crowds that he has booked a series of events for Ohio this year. The July 4 contest is one of two visits he will make to Marion, another pull for teams driven by boys and girls being scheduled for the Marion county fair.

The July 4 program will get under way at 1:30 p. m. with a parade of horses in front of the grandstand. This will be followed by eliminations and finals in both the heavy and lightweight divisions into which the teams are divided to properly handicap the heavier teams.

The contests are operated by hitching each team to a sled loaded with weights. The team pulling the heavy load the greatest distance is declared winner.

The Marion contest Sunday is the fifth in the state this year. The last event was held at Greenville on June 27, and the next one following Marion will be held on Monday, July 5, the day following the contest here, at Coshocton.

Teams entered in the series of contests represent several states.

PATRIOTIC PROGRAM GIVEN BY GRANGE

A patriotic program, in charge of the lecturer Mrs. Everett Uncapher, was presented at a meeting of Progressive grange last night. A question box was a feature of the evening. Harry Long gave a report on the annual memorial service held recently. Plans were made for a reception for new members in two weeks with Mrs. S. Wolfinger, Mrs. Urban Zachman and Mrs. I. N. Hoopman in charge of refreshments. Tentative plans were discussed for the annual grange picnic in the near future. The Zachman family will be in charge of a program July 13.

In Ohio History

(From the J. H. Galbraith collection of Ohio histories, written for The Associated Press.)

ELECTROCUTION

The law providing that the execution of the death penalty in Ohio must be by electricity, was one of several unusual ones enacted under the administration of Gov. Asa S. Bushnell and mainly through his influence.

Since 1885, all executions—hanging being the prescribed method—had taken place within the walls of the penitentiary. The last execution there by hanging was on April 29, 1896.

The first execution by electricity took place on the night of April 21, 1897, and excited much public interest. The only state that had adopted the method up to that time was New York, and before Ohio adopted it a commission visited New York prison where the apparatus used was to be seen, and made a report on the experience with its use there.

A Franklin Institute scientist in Philadelphia has constructed radio apparatus small enough to be carried into the upper air by four small balloons to count and automatically record cosmic rays.

30-Day Ocean Voyage Ahead of Marion Man

A 30-day ocean voyage and a 1,000-mile journey by train through South Africa await Harry Dee of 207 East Columbia street, manager of Klein's department store, who will leave Friday on his first visit to his native land since coming to America 12 years ago. The primary purpose of his several thousand mile trip is to visit his mother at Johannesburg.

The trip will begin from New York on July 9 when Mr. Dee will sail for England. After a few days in London he will embark for Capetown. The boat trips will require a month. At Capetown he will go by train across the open country, much like our western plains, for 1,000 miles to Johannesburg in the heart of the Transvaal, rich in diamonds and gold. Mr. Dee is uncertain when he will return, possibly not for several months.

The story of how Mr. Dee came to choose America as his home is one of chance. About 12 years ago, seeking a position in the importing and exporting business, he came to New York in an attempt to obtain an agency for an American exporting company. The agency was to have been located in South Africa.

Got Store Job

"Somehow the plan didn't materialize," Mr. Dee said. "By chance I secured a job with Gimbels in New York as a department manager."

He was with them for two and a half years and was with the Bachrach Bros. department store for a similar period. He then joined the Klise system, working at Youngstown, and coming to Marion three years ago.

Mr. Dee is enthusiastic about his new country and regards it as one of the finest in the world.

"I've certainly enjoyed my stay here and it is a wonderful country. Any young fellow can get ahead here and the sky's the limit here. There are no checks, no unfair restrictions to hold him down and it all depends on the individual how far he can go."

Dr. Dee was brought up in the atmosphere of the clothing business, his father operating a department store in Johannesburg for several years until his death.

South Africa is far more civilized than most people realize, Mr. Dee said. Schools, government and society all are of the highest type. There is an unusual native problem confronting the whites in that the whites are considerably outnumbered, he said. Missionaries and government agencies are attempting to raise the standard of living of the natives, however.

Knows Several Languages

The conglomeration of European and native nationalities makes it necessary for a business man or average citizen there to know several languages. Mr. Dee knows Dutch and speaks it fluently. He also speaks four of the most prominent native dialects, Zulu, Chargan, S'Susutu and Smahalili.

The country is on a high level and is considered one of the most healthful in the world. The climate is temperate throughout the year, being slightly warmer than here, he said.

Mrs. Dee will visit her parents in Hazelton, Pa., during Mr. Dee's absence. Mr. Dee's mother, Mrs. Rose Dee and three sisters live in Johannesburg. He has no other relatives in the United States.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE . . .

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk, and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

HIGHWAYS NEEDING REPAIRS ARE LISTED

Bulletin Names Roads in This District.

Highways listed as in dire need of reconstruction are mentioned in a bulletin of the state highway department received yesterday by county commissioners. The bulletin contains a report of an address by John J. Juster, state highway director, before the state legislature, asking for a larger appropriation.

The only Marion county road listed is Route 30 from Caledonia east to state Route 61 in Morrow county. Roads listed for nearby counties are: Crawford, Route 4 from Bucyrus to Chatfield; Morrow, Route 95 from Mt. Gilead to Chesterville; Delaware, Route 23 north from Delaware to the Marion county line; Union, Route 36 from Marysville to the county line; Wyandot, Route 67 from the north county line southwest to Route 53; Hardin, Route 30, from Kenton east to the Marion county line.

PETITION IS FILED FOR DITCH REPAIR

A. C. Brown of Agosta petitioned county commissioners yesterday for improvement of the Brown single county ditch, running through Grand township. Fifteen landowners including Mr. Brown would be affected by the improvement.

The work requested is reconstruction of the headwall and necessary back-filling for the headwall. Landowners affected are C. L. and Mildred Anderson, C. H. and A. M. Born, C. L. Gates, Esther aDy, May Hastings, William and Mary Hensel, Union Central Life Insurance Co. G. W. Holverstott, C. A. McGrew, Emerson M. Parks, Henry Thibaut, B. M. Smith, A. C. Wilson and Philip Sheridan.

Commissioners' Clerk Clifford M. Willoughby said the petition is not official since Mr. Brown failed to sign a $200 bond attached to the petition. Commissioners will not be able to give the matter consideration until the bond is in order, he said.

County's Part in CCC Program Is Reviewed

As plans are going forward for the quarterly enrollment in the federal government's civilian conservation corps, Walter Guthrie, deputy selecting agent for Marion county, today reviewed briefly the CCC's history in connection with Marion county.

Since the first enrollment took place here on June 5, 1935, 683 youths from the county have joined the CCC, up to and including the last previous quarterly enrollment. That number is expected to go over the 700 mark, when the next enrollment is held early in July.

Of the 683 youths 530 were later discharged. 75 were rejected for various reasons either at Fort Knox, Ky., or at the receiving station and 78 still remain in CCC camps. Marion county youths have been sent to all of the 49 states with the CCC and many have requested their discharge to take outside employment, Guthrie pointed out.

Tracing the histories of the 530 youths who have served with the CCC and have been discharged, Guthrie reports that the largest number, 260, served their entire term of enrollment. The number that were discharged to accept private employment was 114, while 92 discharges were credited to desertions, 21 to misconduct, 13 to the refusal to work, 13 to injuries and illness and eight to unsatisfactory work. Two discharges were for insufficient service and death from an injury in camp.

Analyzing the age groups of those who were accepted for service in the CCC Guthrie points out that the largest number of the enrollees are 18 years old. Of the total number enrolled, 217 were 18, 112 were 19, 50 were 20, 45 were 17, and 43 were 21. Twenty-three youths were listed in each the 22 and 23 year age groups, 21 in 24, 22 in 25, 18 in 26, five in 28 and but one in 27, according to Guthrie's figures.

Although a definite quota and an enrollment date for the July enlistment have not yet been announced, applications are being accepted now in Guthrie's office at the relief headquarters building on South Prospect street. Youths who wish to join the CCC may make application at his office between 8 a. m. and 5 p. m. Their applications will be kept on file and they will be notified immediately when the enrollment date is announced.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat fatty, greasy, over-rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or over-tired—your stomach juices may be poor. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over.

Instead of merely taking a laxative for stomach pain, it is dangerous and foolish, it takes those little Black tablets called Bell-ans for Indigestion to make the excess stomach acids harmless, relieve distress in 5 minutes and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and now 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans for Indigestion. Sold everywhere. 10 Bell & Co. Inc.

BOARDS WILL HOLD DITCH HEARING

Commissioners of Marion and Morrow counties will hold their first joint meeting at 10 a. m. tomorrow at Mt. Gilead on the schedule of assessments for the proposed Otter creek ditch in western Morrow county and eastern Marion county.

The project will cost approximately $7,000 and will involve a stretch approximately eight miles long. The assessments were ordered drawn up June 10 at a joint meeting at Mt. Gilead. The assessments were scheduled by K. H. Graham, Morrow county engineer.

William J. Fulton, Morrow county commissioner, is president of the joint board. At the Thursday meeting which is expected to last several hours, affected landowners, of which there are 58, may appear in protest or in favor of the assessments.

Firemen riding on the rear of new fire trucks are protected by shatterproof glass windshields fitted with wing type wind deflectors.

Defense Strictly Forbidden.

Spaniards, no matter which form of dictatorship they prefer, must know that their civil war is being fought for them by foreign nations. They can see German and Italian equipment and troops. They can see Russian airplanes and tanks. They can see French guns and gunners.

Consequently, to Spaniards, particularly to those of loyalist persuasion, it must be ridiculous to hear Germany and Italy complaining about Russian interference, for instance, or insisting that loyalist aviators mustn't drop any more bombs on their ships.

It is beginning to be ridiculous even in the United States, which is so far away from Spain, both by distance and by sympathy, that it still looks upon the Spanish civil war as a minor flareup which soon will be settled, with no great damage done.

Maybe that's the way it will turn out. But while hoping for that fortunate settlement, it's worth remembering that every war starts a different way and that the last two important military movements—Japan's invasion of Manchuria and Italy's invasion of Ethiopia—never formally started at all.

The invaders simply penetrated the territory of their victims without declaring war. That's precisely what is being done in Spain, with the important difference that the fascist dictatorships are being resisted this time by a condition of communist dictatorships and democracies. It's entirely in keeping with their doctrine of the "reason of unreason" that the fascist dictatorships should try to erect a sign warning their opponents that "Defense Is Strictly Forbidden."

Glad To Be Back.

Grove Patterson, editor of the Toledo Blade, has just returned from Russia. The people, there, he says, are living in terror of the purge. The Stalin crowd is handling things with its gloves off. Things look bad.

Mr. Patterson probably was told that things look bad in his own country, too. But with all respect to those who like to paint everything—blacker than it is, and with an apology to Mr. Patterson, if he runs across this, he probably was aware of certain points of difference.

The dominant political party here isn't conducting a purge, except in the way all majority parties persecute their opposition. The Republican party may not amount to much at the moment, but it hasn't been liquidated.

No one has been banished for failure to line up behind the chief, with the possible exception of Vice President Garner. His absence from Washington, however, is voluntary, and it's grieving President Roosevelt a lot more than it's grieving Mr. Garner, who likes to relax in summertime anyway.

Men who won't play dead for politicians, labor leaders who are signing up members for organizations which will wield great political power, workmen who stop the wheels of production, critics who stand off and find fault with everything that's being done and isn't being done—they aren't being shot through the head to get them out of the way.

An observer just returned from a place where things like that do happen can say without fibbing he's glad to be back in America where most of the things that could happen don't happen.

Worry of the Week.

It's astonishing, some times, the way one thing leads to another. This story starts with Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

She resigned as an honorary vice president of the National Indian association. That organization's president, Mrs. Otto Heinigke, said the resignation was caused by disagreement between the bureau of Indian affairs in Washington and the National Indian association.

The bureau wants to let Indians be like Indians, and the association wants to teach them to live like white men. This issue has been simmering for years, and now it is about to boil over. Let Mrs. Heinigke tell the worst:

"Why they have those perfectly terrible customs, perfectly terrible. They have those terrible war dances and tribal dances which are immoral and other things. If this sort of thing keeps up the old war spirit may be revived and we may go back to those terrible Indian wars of the past."

Yes sir, and the children probably will be kidnapped and brought up as little Indians. Don't look now, but there's probably a redskin lurking under the dining room table, just waiting to do his worst.

The Moral of The News

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

"AND the moral of it all is," said the Grouse, "that if you temporize with the ideas of gangsters, by and large you have the gangsters in the parlor."

"The moral of all what?"

"The moral of the news in this morning's paper," replied the Grouse. "And yesterday morning's, and probably tomorrow's."

"Internationally speaking," he continued, "this whole business began in Manchuria. Every body had signed certain sorts of agreements. They agreed to respect the territorial integrity of other nations, even of other nations that they didn't approve of. They agreed not to resort to war as an instrument of national policy. Then one of them said, 'There are a lot of bandits running around in China, and also a lot of capitalistic interests exploiting them and also there is a lot of loot to be gotten out of China in the shape of land and resources, and, therefore, it becomes our historic mission to preserve order there, and that historic mission is more important than mere agreements. The welfare of the nation, after all, takes precedence over such trifles as international law or international contracts.

"And the other nations were quite upset and said, 'Tut, Tut, Tut.' But that's all they said or did. And good people all over the world said, 'War is the worst evil. At all costs we must avoid war. Besides, the Japanese need more room. And Manchuria is a long way off. It can't happen here.'

It Happened in Ethiopia.

"And then," continued the Grouse, "if I may further elucidate the Primer, other nations, looking on, said, 'That was a fine idea on the part of Japan.' And one of them said, 'Look at Ethiopia. It's a terrible place. There is human slavery there, and the most backward civilization. Besides, it's located in an elegant, strategic position, and in a lot of places we can grow food that is badly needed, and the national welfare demands that we take it. And the national welfare takes precedence over international contracts, as is illustrated by Japan. So Italy invaded and conquered Ethiopia. And a lot of good people said, 'War is the world's worst evil. Anyhow, the Ethiopians are a lot of barbarians. This is a white man's world. It can't happen here.' And nothing was done about it.

"And then," continued the Grouse, "Germany said, 'What right has the rest of the world to tell us that we can't do as we please on our own territory? And what's the good of spending a lot of time in futile talk? It's true that a preceding government signed a treaty called the Treaty of Locarno, but what is a treaty amongst realists?' So they broke it.

"And the world said: 'After all, the Germans were badly treated. And you can't expect a vigorous and long-suffering people to take things on the chin indefinitely, even if they did make agreements. War is the worst evil. It can't happen here.' And nothing was done about it.

The Conflict in Spain

"Well, and then the Spanish people began going through a bad internal struggle. It was their own struggle and there isn't any clairvoyant gifted enough to tell how it might have come out. And now nobody will ever know. Because Germany and Italy said 'Maybe they are going to get Communism in Spain. Communism must at all costs be prevented. The prevention of Communism is our mission. It takes precedence over all such nonsense as not reverting to wars as an instrument of national policy. Besides a war isn't a war unless you declare it. You can make war in a great many ways. You can, for instance, make it under a non-intervention agreement.'

"And the good people of the world said 'War is the worst evil. At all costs it should be prevented. It can't happen here.'

"And that," said the Grouse, "brings us down to the morning papers; to the speech of Mr. Chamberlain, and to the article of Mr. Farinacci. By a perfectly logical process, the events which started in Manchuria are now gathered up in a cyclone to shake the world. A little while ago a few people, in countries that don't want war, were saying, 'War is evitable; real, large-scale, world war, unless we insist right now, right this minute, that agreements mean what they say. It's better to risk a small war right now for the sake of agreements, than a big war which will surely come if this process of breaking treaties is allowed to go on.'

"Watch and Wait"

"But most people in those countries that don't want war said: 'Keep cool. Watch and wait.'

"And now it's the other side which is saying, 'Better risk war right now than wait until the people we shall have to fight are armed. For now we are strong; we have taken position after position; but there is a limit to human patience and so let's strike before that limit has been reached.' That is the sense of Farinacci's article. That's an article designed for the home folks. And, of course, there's another opinion expressed in the Italian plan, designed for peaceful nations: 'Go on watching and keeping cool. We aren't going to do anything very dangerous. Just something a little dangerous.'"

"I suppose you know what to do? I suppose you would be willing to risk war now?

"The point where war could be risked has, I fear, passed. It was passed long ago. But that is not what the moral is for us.

"The moral for us is that domestic af-

Better Prospects

By LYDIA GRAY SHAW
Associated Press Writer.

NEW YORK, June 30.—America's sweet girl graduates won't have to tussle so fiercely this year with that old dilemma—marriage or career.

For with any kind of luck, says Virginia C. Gildersleeve, Barnard college's famous dean, they are very apt to have both.

Once more jobs are opening up, and industry is more eager to make places for the girls than in any other year since 1930 and 1931.

"Opportunities are somewhat greater than last year," Dean Gildersleeve asserts, "and many times greater than in depression years."

Majority Will Marry.

With the wisdom that comes from guiding college girls toward employment during many a June, gray-haired Dean Gildersleeve figures that 72 per cent of the class of 1937 will marry within 10 years. But fewer will marry immediately after graduation than did a decade ago. Most will work a few years, and they're likely to continue working, part time at least, after marriage.

Not so many of the girls plan to be teachers this year, says the dean, because only those who really want to teach will have to do so.

As a result, more women graduates are turning to business and the professions. More Barnard girls are planning to study medicine than are going into nursing she says.

Advanced Study Popular

Law isn't as attractive as medicine but social service attracts an increasing number of girls. And more and more, college graduates will pursue advanced study before going to work.

But even if the world looks bright to the class of 1937, it isn't so rosy as it was in the 20's. No longer do representatives of leading concerns throng college halls on the lookout for promising material.

The 1937 graduate will make her way in her chosen field. But, says Dean Gildersleeve, she will have to fight her way.

Joseph E. Blackburn was a native of Belmont county, O., who rose from a log cabin home to high position in the state government. Born June 20, 1860, he attended public schools at Martin's Ferry and Bellaire and, at the age of 12 years, became a laborer at the Belmont glass works. He became foreman of the factory and the organizer of a mold maker's union. Later he studied pharmacy and obtained his degree.

In 1893 Blackburn was elected to the state legislature—his first public office. In 1896 the Republican party nominated him for state dairy and food commissioner and he was elected. His popularity was shown by his reelection for second and third terms.

Two Witnesses

From The New York Sun

THE mental processes of a congressional investigating committee were on view recently. The subject was the Black-Connery bill to regulate wages and hours. One of the witnesses against it was the secretary of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Chandler. He was red hot and no mincer of words. He said that the bill was a perversion of federal authority and an invasion of the rights of the states. No committeemen denied it. He declared that South Carolina fired on Fort Sumter "for a far less pretext than this bill affords." Even Sen. Black, who comes from Alabama, remained silent at this. And why? Well, it was obvious that Mr. Chandler possessed ready speech and might give back as good as he got. Furthermore, would the country pay much attention to the views of a Chamber of Commerce man, such associations being notoriously controlled by "princes of privilege"?

But Bernard Wittenauer was a witness of another type. If he had been on the Black-Connery side he might have been held up as one of the underprivileged. Mr. Wittenauer in a way regards himself as underprivileged, being denied the privilege to work. He wants to work at his former job in a Youngstown steel company. The CIO strike threw him out of it. When he said that only 500 of 15,000 employes at his plant voted to strike, Chairman Black became quite sure that Mr. Wittenauer had been sent by the steel barons. The workman replied that he had taken the last dollar out of his house to make the trip because he thought the committee ought to know about conditions in the valley. He produced a statement, typewritten. This to Sen. Black was ipso facto evidence that it had been prepared by steel officials. No, said the steel worker; he had written his side in pencil and his 15-year-old boy had typed it.

The statesmen who were dumb under the remarks of the torrid Mr. Chandler spent an hour and a half trying to break down the story of Bernard Wittenauer. His stuff hurt!

You T-T-Tell 'Em

THE BOY who only s-s-s-s-tuttered when he t-t-t-talked wasn't being accurate, according to Dr. James Sonnett Greene, medical director of the National Hospital for Speech Disorders, New York City.

Stuttering need not appear only in a person's speech, Dr. Greene explained recently, but may be found in the way he drives an automobile, plays a piano, operates a typewriter or plays golf.

"The stutter-type personality is a chronic hesitator coming from neurotic stock, demonstrating neurotic tendencies," Dr. Greene said. "A person may not show that specific sort of hesitation we call stuttering, but still belong to the large group of people which comprises the stutter-type.

"In our work at the hospital we have treated people who stuttered playing musical instruments, for example, becoming stuck on a note on the piano, as a stutterer to a word; those who stuttered on the violin giving a spasmodic repetition of notes, those who make the typewriter or linotype machine stutter and others who demonstrate their hesitations in such acts as dancing, golfing, driving an automobile, etc. I am sure every one has observed stuttering automobiles, the driver imparting his own spasms to the machine."

Dr. Greene said that about eight times as many boys as girls stutter.

"The element of social competition enters into the life of even the youngest boys much more decisively than into that of girls," he explained. "For the little girls play with each other in groups, while the boy is injected immediately into an incomparably more strenuous atmosphere of group games in which the prowess of much older boys sets the standard. In other words, the social impact is stronger in the male sex, and stuttering therefore, must be more common."

Reflections On "Love Feast"

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1937, By The Marion Star

WASHINGTON, June 30—Several days having passed since President Roosevelt gathered to his side at Jefferson Island the members of his party, Capitol Hill has had an opportunity to appraise the episode in the light of its possible meaning with respect to the supreme court bill.

First of all, it may be stated that Mr. Roosevelt did not debate public issues with his guests except in the most incidental fashion. He made no effort to win converts to his causes. He merely sought to reestablish the same spirit of good fellowship which was so characteristic of the early days of his first administration and which lately has given way to an atmosphere of bitterness.

Mr. Roosevelt had been told by the press and so many persons individually that he is possessed of a magic charm in personal conference that when the opportunity came to employ it in an emergency within the party, he naturally did not hesitate.

But what does all the conversation and conference with the members of the Democratic party in congress add up to? What effect will it have on the court bill?

Basically, the most significant thing about the Jefferson Island outing, in the words of a prominent Democratic senator who attended, was the fact that it had to be held at all. Certainly the President's belated recognition of the cleavage his policies are making in the Democratic ranks is better than no recognition at all.

Must Abandon Alliances

But fundamentally Mr. Roosevelt would have to abandon such things as the Corcoran wage and hour bill and his alliance with John Lewis and the CIO really to win back the confidence he once had among members of the insurgent Democratic group. He would also have to lay aside his proposal to "pack" the supreme court. None of these things apparently does Mr. Roosevelt intend to do.

On the contrary, the President has a scheme which is giving the anti-court senators a good deal of worry. Briefly, it is that the senate pass any court bill it wishes, as for instance, the compromise proposed by Senator Hatch. This bill would provide for the appointment of additional justices only to match those who are over 75 years of age and do not retire and the appointments would be spread out over a period of years.

To some of the middle-of-the-road senators this seems like a plausible proposition and it would not be surprising if it did pass. Then the Presidents' trump card is to put his original bill to enlarge the supreme court, through the house of representatives. It is conceded that unless public opinion is definitely aroused and members of the house hear from home as emphatically as did the senators, the measure might get through the house with a comfortable margin for the President.

Then the senate bill and the house bill would have to be ironed out in conference committee between the two houses. Mr. Roosevelt naturally would have some advantages in such an arrangement because it is usually easier to control a conference committee than it is to control both houses of congress. If the conference committee wrote a compromise, it might be one that leaned more closely toward the original plan of the President than toward the bill that passes the senate. This would be a victory for Mr. Roosevelt.

Senators opposed to the "packing" of the court are aware of the strategy and their first move undoubtedly will be to prevent any "compromise" measure from coming to a vote. This can be done by a "filibuster" but on the skill by which a filibuster is con-

Peace in Tempest

BY O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 30—Trinity Church and its side yard of crumbling graves is the calm which the scientists tell us is the vortex of every hurricane. Coming out of the rip tide of Wall Street so suddenly into Trinity's benign serenity is something of an emotional experience. It has moved poets.

On pleasant day stenographers and clerks at noon-day stroll among the ancient tombstones and often there is a spread of napkins for a luncheon on the old slabs marking the crypts of illustrious dead. One of the famous monuments is that of Alexander Hamilton.

At 12 m. when Wall and Broad streets erupt their hordes, the notes from the great Trinity organ come trembling down the nave and float out on the tumbling roar of traffic. It is surprising the number of brokers attending the midday services. Almost always it is packed.

But it's at night when the lower tip of the island is desolated that Trinity is most impressive. Especially when a thin scimiter of a moon hangs in a clear sky and the ancient cross points so majestically upward at the very gates of Mammon.

In my Park Row days Broad street and its then busy curb market always had its noon-day religious services. They were conducted by an apple-cheeked priest known to the quarter as the Bishop of Wall Street. He talked of spiritual things for a half hour and never failed to draw an earnest, attentive crowd. He passed on several years ago and so far no one has supplanted him.

It is little known that disciples of the Ticker and Tape are frequently regular church goers and there is scarcely a big brokerage house without its quota of Bible students. Indeed, a religious statistical survey in New York a few years ago revealed that among the most ardent religionists were the theater folk of Broadway and the bankers and brokers down town. J. P. Morgan has always been especially active in community church affairs, as was his father, George F. Baker attended services regularly. So did the elder Stillman and scores of others whose names loomed large in finance.

Big department stores are going to town in grandeur, speed and comfort with escalators. One no longer rides but fairly floats. The new escalator has a way of wafting the customer upward with the giddy thrill of an aeroplane take-off. They are modernistic, glittering and magnificent. In the stores clerks call them "escalalias"—folk who come in solely to enjoy the upward scoot.

The testimonial dinner racket has been striking snags recently, and several on the fire have been "postponed," which means they have been called off. One of the testimony dinner outfits operates from an opulent set of offices in one of the skyscraper spires. Their stunt is to secure the sponsorship of a few choice names, the consent of the celebrity honor guest, and then put on a high pressure sales campaign. If the promoters can put the dinner over in a big way they can clear several thousands. But those who attend such affairs have grown skittish. They have got to know that such dinners are spontaneously inspired by friends and not high pressure boys.

Anna Held's daughter, known as Anna Held Jr., has retired from her experiments in conducting restaurants. Her first place was opened on the Bronx Parkway with a dining verandah overlooking an artificial lake, aswim with ducks. Later she opened a winter cafe on upper Lexington avenue. She did fairly well in both spots, but her great occupational love is for gardening and she is now raising peonies on a refurbished estate near Quinby, Va. During her leisure hours she fishes with her husband, J. Dodd Martensen, a golf pro. Anna Held Jr., while a bit plumper than her celebrated mother, has the same rolling eyes which the original Anna Held in her most famous song "could not make behave."

Two of the largest hotels recently had stamped on their silverware, "Stolen From Blank Hotel" in the effort to frustrate the souvenir hunters. Instead, it increased the pilfering. House detectives say such purloiners do not regard this sort of thefting as a moral issue any more than does J. P. Morgan income tax evasion. I have heard of an otherwise respectable gentleman who has a complete dinner service for six pilfered from hotels all over the world. Indeed, I've hooked a few towels and ash trays here and there myself.

TAYLOR OF U. S. STEEL CITED IN TAX QUIZ

Finger Also Pointed at Sloan, Late Alfred duPont, Ed Wynn, Fritz Kreisler.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 30—A congressional investigating committee received testimony today that Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the United States Steel Corp., Mrs. Taylor and the late Alfred I. du Pont, had reduced taxes by incorporating family residences.

Arthur H. Kent, assistant general counsel of the treasury, also told the tax inquiry committee that Alfred P. Sloan Jr., chairman of the General Motors corporation, and Mrs. Emily R. Cadwalader, of Fort Washington Pa., had effected tax savings by incorporating yachts.

Next Kent named Ed Wynn, the actor and radio entertainer; Fritz Kreisler, the noted violinist, and Percy Crosby, creator of the newspaper cartoon character of "Skippy," as persons who had incorporated "personal talents" to reduce taxes.

These artists, the attorney said, hired themselves to personal corporations formed to sell their talents, usually for "substantially less than the income derived by the corporation" for their services. In this way, Kent said, Kreisler made tax savings of $33,264 from 1934 to 1936 and Crosby of $72,941 from 1933 to 1936, while Wynn had sought to obtain savings of $196,728 from 1932 to 1936.

The witnesses said duPont at one time substantially controlled E. I. duPont De Nemours Co. and was a "very wealthy man." DuPont and his estate, Kent said, saved an estimated $200,437 from 1931 to 1935 through incorporation of the Nemours company and the transfer to it of real property worth over $1,000,000, "consisting primarily of a palatial residence at Wilmington, Del."

VANDERLIP, FAMOUS FINANCIER, IS DEAD

Headed New York's National City Bank, One of World's Largest.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 30—Frank A. Vanderlip, veteran financier, died in New York hospital after an illness of several weeks. He was 72.

A native of Aurora, Ill., Mr. Vanderlip started life as a machinist's apprentice and rose to the presidency of the National City Bank of New York, one of the world's largest financial institutions, before he retired in 1919.

He entered the hospital June 16 for what his son, Frank A. Vanderlip Jr., described as "observation following an illness in California eight months ago."

As financial editor of the Chicago Tribune and late of the Economist, he wrote such informed comment, that Lyman J. Gage, then secretary of the United States treasury under McKinley, asked him to be his first assistant. That was in 1897.

Vanderlip handled the $200,000,000 Spanish-American war loan with such skill, it was oversubscribed seven times, that taciturn James Stillman, the elder, president of the powerful City Bank, offered him a vice-president's desk. Vanderlip retired from the treasury in 1901 and accepted the new job.

SENATE MAY ENACT STOP-GAP BUDGET

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 30—Ohio's senate prepared to convene tonight with the possibility that it would pass a "stop-gap" appropriations bill and name a new conference committee to discuss the biennial appropriations question with the house of representatives' group.

In calling the senate session, Lieut. Gov. Paul P. Yoder said that if a new conference committee were named, a partial appropriations bill of about $11,225,000 to permit the state to operate through Sept. 30 doubtless would be acted upon. He expressed scant hope that the present committee discussions would bear fruit in agreement on a biennial bill.

State departments already are operating on a partial appropriation which expires tonight at midnight.

"Passage of another stop-gap must not mean that three months are to be taken up on the biennial bill," Yoder warned, however. "I dislike to see such a drastic step as a stop-gap measure, but the senate would pass one only as a safeguard, having it ready for house action, probably Thursday, in the event the present conference collapsed."

EDUCATORS HEAR FLETCHER ADDRESS

Marion Congressman Speaks at Detroit; Local Teachers Attend Meeting.

Congressman Brooks Fletcher of Marion, ranking member of the house education committee, told members of the National Education association in their annual convention at Detroit today that the "secret ballot" had blocked a measure to provide federal funds for schools, The Associated Press reported.

In an address before the group, he said the Harrison-Black-Fletcher bill would provide an initial appropriation of $100,000,000 to be increased to $300,000,000 over a period of years.

Marion county educators attending the convention include J. E. Frew of 311 Bellefontaine avenue, principal of Edison Junior High school, J. Eugene Auld of 125 South Grand avenue, delegate of the Marion City Teachers' association, and G. W. Cox of Caledonia school. Mrs. Frew and Mrs. Auld are also attending.

Mr. Fletcher is a co-sponsor of the education bill which he said would take thousands of schools "out of the breadline of education." In 1935 more than 42,000 schools were without funds to operate a normal school year, he said.

The states would have complete authority over expenditure of the funds alloted them by the federal government.

7 OF 10 SLAIN DURING RIOT SHOT IN BACK

La Follette Group Presents Coroner's Report Hitherto Unpublished.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 30—The senate civil liberties committee presented evidence today that seven of the 10 persons killed in the Memorial day battle with Chicago police were shot in the back.

Chairman La Follette, Progressive of Wisconsin, submitted a hitherto unpublished coroner's report, showing that three of the slain men had bullet wounds in the side and the rest in the back.

The senator read a police report which said that "some of the officers on the ground and at the mercy of the mob fired their service revolvers," and then asked Chicago Police Commissioner James P. Allman:

"Can you explain how these men could have been shot in the back, if the police were lying on the ground defending themselves with service revolvers?"

"They might have been shot in the back by other strikers," Allman suggested.

Under La Follette's persistent questioning, Allman asserted that "it is a matter of judgment" where the bullets might take effect, and added:

"You can't do target practice when you are on the ground."

Allman testified that Make Mills, a civilian investigator paid by the city, had given him a list of 13 "known Communists" who participated in the Memorial day demonstration.

When La Follette suggested that the list of "known Communists" had been given to the newspapers "to help justify what took place," Allman answered. "I didn't give it out."

NEWSPAPERS BATTLE CLOSED SHOP DRIVE

Claim "Outside Authority" Would Prevent Impartial News Reporting.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 30—Representatives of 11 newspaper associations waged a campaign today against a closed shop for editorial employes, asserting that the responsibility for impartial news reporting cannot be discharged "if some outside authority" determines whom the publishers shall or shall not employ.

More than 300 publishers and executives, meeting in a special convention yesterday, adopted a resolution declaring "unalterable opposition" to the closed shop proposed by the American Newspaper Guild.

The resolution, copies of which were dispatched to publishers throughout the country, said:

"There has never been a time in our history when uncolored presentation of news was as vitally important as today.

"The extension of the great press associations serving news to newspapers of varying social, economic, political and religious beliefs has emphasized this development of impartial news treatment. Thousands of men and women are devoting their lives to the gathering and presentation of news without bias.

"Only on such a foundation of factual reporting can sound public opinion and wise public policies be based.

"This vital service of the press to the public can be performed properly only when those who are responsible for the publication are free to choose the persons whom they deem best qualified to report and edit the news.

"This responsibility cannot be discharged if some outside authority, beyond their control, determines whom they shall or shall not employ. This is precisely what the American Newspaper Guild seeks by its demand. And that demand is the more serious because the guild is now committed to a number of definite political objectives.

"No newspaper can command confidence in the fairness of its news presentation if it selects all its employes from only one political party, one religious denomination, or any one group devoted to a single cause."

Marion Loses To Fostoria; Seeks Revenge Here Today

TUESDAY'S VICTORS TO PLAY TWO GAMES AT LINCOLN PARK

Marion Beaten by Squad That Has Won Only Five Out of 29 Games.

Marion's Ohio State league baseball team was defeated by the lowly Fostoria Red Birds 15 to 3 yesterday afternoon at Fostoria, as the rejuvenated St. Louis Cardinal "farm hands" unleashed an 18-hit attack on pitchers Bob Van Bergen and Gene Morris to win their fifth game in 29 contests.

The Geyranites will have an opportunity for revenge for the defeat when the Fostoria Red Birds visit Lincoln park this afternoon for a doubleheader. The twin bill, starting at 1:30 o'clock will be the first visit of the flock to Marion. The locals will invade the home lot of the league leaders, Mansfield Red Sox, Thursday and Friday, with the Sox coming here for one game Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

Bolstered by the addition of several new players, Fostoria displayed its best baseball of the current season in drubbing the locals yesterday.

Manager Chappie Geygan's charges tallied twice in the opening inning as Stiewo and Platek walked, Ted Swed grounded out to first to advance both men a base, Geygan then slashed a single through the box to score the two runs.

Stiewo Scores for Marion

The third and final Marion run was registered in the sixth inning. Stiewo again started the rally by beating out an infield single. Harris walked, Platek forced Harris at second, Stiewo moving over to third. He then scored as Swed filed out to deep left field.

Fostoria wasted little time in taking the lead as it pushed four runs across the plate in the first inning.

Bob Van Bergen, Marion's starting hurler, starting his first game in over a month, clearly showed the affects of his long layoff as he walked the first three men to face him, Navrocki, the Red Birds clean-up hitter, hit into a double play, Stiewo to Geygan to Harris, and Eley scored. Godlewski hit a ball between first and second, that Manager Geygan was not able to hold, to score Bowen. Kraus walked and scored when Robbins, Marion left-fielder, lost Petrikovic's long drive in the sun and it went for a triple. Zachritz ended the inning by grounding out to pitcher Van Bergen.

Van Bergen Retired

Fostoria drove Van Bergen to the showers in the second inning as Jenkins walked, Bowen and Navrocki singled and Gillis was credited with a three-base hit when Robbins lost his fly ball in the sun.

Gene Morris took over the pitching duties for locals but he too was unable to stop the Fostorians as they registered eight runs off his delivery, few of which were "earned."

Karl Kauffman led the Marion attack as he pounded out two doubles and a single in five trips to the plate. Buster Stiewe, diminutive short-stop, hit two singles in four times at bat.

LINEMAN TO LEAVE HOSPITAL SOON

James R. Ague, 32, of Columbus, who suffered burns Monday afternoon when he came in contact with a high voltage electric line on which he was working four miles west of Marion, was reported in "good" condition at City hospital today. His physician said he probably will be released from the hospital early next week.

Ague was burned when his left arm struck the electric line while he was working on a pole, helping rebuild some lines for the Ohio Power Co. He was burned about the arm, right leg and head. He is employed by the Hoosier Construction Co.

Marion Catcher Behind Plate in Fostoria Game

Bob Griffith, who was behind the plate for the Marion team yesterday, is well known in Marion as he caught for the Steam Shovel club for several seasons. He was drafted to fill in for Ray Fitzgerald, the regular receiver, who suffered a broken finger in the second game of the Sabbath Day double-header here. Fitzgerald will probably be out of action for quite some time and it is expected that Manager Geygan will obtain a new receiver within a day or two.

Red Jenkins, Fostoria's hurler in yesterday's encounter, has received credit for four of the five triumphs that the last place Red Birds have been able to chalk up this season.

Navrocki, the Fostoria third-baseman, pounded out three hits and drove in five runs to practically win the game single-handed for the victors.

Stan Platek, Marion's right fielder, known for his strong throwing arm, underestimated his strength and threw the ball over catcher Griffith's head from deep right field in an attempt to throw out a runner at the plate.

CLEVELAND BEATS BROWNS; REDS LOSE TWICE TO PIRATES

Leaders in Pennant Races of Both Major Leagues Closely Bunched.

BY ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's not exactly the way Col. Jacob Ruppert would have it, but nevertheless the manner in which the Chicago White Sox are snapping at the Yankees' heels has brought joy to the remainder of the American league.

The Yanks hold first place today but their position is far from as secure as it was a year ago. The Pale Hose trailed only by three games after climbing into the first division on June 1.

Falling back on Red Ruffing's pinch single in the ninth after George Selkirk and Bill Dickey had blasted out home runs earlier in the game, the Yanks defeated the Athletics 3 to 2 yesterday. The White Sox kept pace with them, however, as they turned back the Tigers by the same score for their ninth straight triumph.

In the National league only three games separate the pace-setting Cubs and the fourth place Pirates.

The Cubs' rough and tumble 11 to 9 triumph over the Cards, in which Dizzy Dean pitched one inning and was charged with the defeat; the Giants' 4 to 3 decision over the Phillies in 10 innings, and the Pirates' double victory over the Reds by the scores of 2-1 and 13-6 brought the four leaders closer together.

In addition to the Giants-Phillies affair, Brooklyn and Boston went overtime, the Bees winning 1-0 on pitcher Lou Fette's 12th-inning single. The Red Sox and Senators battled the same length of time to a 2-2 tie while the Indians whipped the Browns 7 to 5.

COLUMBUS DEFEATS ST. PAUL, ADVANCES TO THIRD POSITION

Cooper Limits Saints to Two Hits, Both by Joe Coscarart.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 30 — Toledo's Mud Hens were back on top today in their sizzling battle with Minneapolis for first place in the American Association, thanks to a neat pitching job by Alta Cohen, the reformed outfielder.

Cohen held the Millers to five hits last night, while his mates battered Leon Pettit for 11 safeties and a 10 to 1 victory and a full-game lead over Donie Bush's crew.

Morton Cooper came within two hits, both by Joe Coscarart, of a no-hit game as Columbus whipped St. Paul, 4 to 1, and moved into third place. The Red Bird fireballer never was in difficulty, walking only one man and stopping every one but Coscarart whose hits were singles.

Milwaukee went into a fourth-place tie with Indianapolis by trimming the Indians, 6 to 2, behind Al Milnar's effective pitching.

Kansas City made it two in a row in the series by defeating Louisville, 9 to 5.

WRESTLING LAST NIGHT

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — Bronko Nagurski, 232, International Falls, Minn., threw Dean Detton, 205, Salt Lake City, Utah, acknowledged world's champion, (6:32 minutes).

SAN FRANCISCO—Vincent Lopez, 235, Mexico, defeated Sandor Szabo, 220, Hungary, (two out of three falls).

SAN DIEGO, Calif.—Man Mountain Dean, 292, defeated Ben Morgan, 300, Houston, Tex., (straight falls).

BOSTON — Steven "Crusher" Casey, 226, Ireland, defeated Ed Don George, 225, New York, 1:25:56.

Daily Pattern for Home Use

BY ANNE ADAMS

REALIZE A NEW SLENDER SILHOUETTE

"Have you been dieting?" your friends are sure to ask when you make a first appearance in this new, slenderizing frock. Well wager they won't believe, either, that "dressing off" pounds is so easily achieved, as you can so well prove. Anne Adams comes in for a bit of praise, too, for it was her simple-to-sew pattern which helped you to triumph this easy way! Have you an invitation to dinner, concert, tea or party? This what could be more appropriate than this lovely frock with its short sleeves, sippling jabot, flared skirt and gay row of buttons. Ideal in printed silk.

Pattern 4447 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50. Size 36 takes 3¾ yards 39 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send Fifteen Cents (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly size number, address and style number.

Make a thrill. Order your copy of the new Anne Adams pattern book, and stitch up your own summer "success" frocks! Choose trim sportsters, lovely dress-up flatterers, cheery house frocks and dainty undies! Gay, well-wearing toggery for toddler and growing-up! Really slenderizing models! See what's what in latest fabrics—accessories—beauty hints. Book Fifteen Cents. Pattern Fifteen Cents; 25c for both when ordered together.

Send your order to The Marion Star, Pattern Department, 243 W. 17th St., New York, N. Y.

PATTERN 4447

The Stars Say—

FOR THURSDAY, JULY 1.

CONFLICTING PLANETARY configurations make this a day difficult to interpret. Although there are signs of exceedingly fortuitous and happy circumstances, there also are promises of delays, impediments, anxieties and grief. It may be that a bereavement in business may frustrate private gratifications. In any case, good and powerful friendships figure, finances may be easy and a change of benefit or a welcome journey are prepared.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of much pleasure and gratification in private affiliations, although there may be a stubborn obstacle, a postponement or a sorrow in business to be adjusted. Employment may give concern, with a sudden change or journey of benefit.

A child born on this day will be serious and studious, although friendly, gracious and popular may thrive through such fine and useful social qualities.

U. S. Steel Dividend Declaration Helps Lift List Fractions to Two Points

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK June 30—Traders marked share prices up fractions to two or more points in quiet dealings today

Providing some incentive to buyers, brokers said, was the declaration late yesterday of a $2 payment on U S steel preferred Industrial news had a bright tinge

Gainers were U S Steel Bethlehem, Republic, General Motors, Chrysler Goodyear U S Rubber Westinghouse General Electric and Baltimore & Ohio

Bonds improved Grains and cotton were irregular

Demand for U S Steel was explained by analysts in terms of Tuesday's late dividend on the senior issue reducing arrearages to $1 25 a share This it was argued served to bring nearer the day when the corporation will pay something on the common When directors meet for quarterly dividend action on July 27 they will like's have an increase in second quarter profits over the first three months on which to base judgment it is said

Some encouragement was derived from steel news Iron Age said the vitality of the steel industry despite strikes and other unsettled conditions led the trade to believe expansion in new business will develop once disputes between employers and workers have been settled

While new orders continue to run behind shipments business booked in June was not much if any, below that of May For some companies the June volume ranged from 65 to 75 per cent of shipments New business is heavier in sheets plates structural shapes and oil-country pipe" it said

Wool Market

By The Associated Press

BOSTON June 30—The wool market tinged quiet today Mills showed little interest but prices appear cool for delivery after the strike is settled

An occasional small lot of country packed medium Ohio fleece wool offered from the country is selling scarcely and clothiers prefer to wait Good grades wool sell at around 42 cents the grease delivered Most Western grease wools were quiet and firm quotations were mostly for Mill lots Very little or no actually staples ordered in the country for fine western wools but their bids were below the parity of asking prices and not wools in Boston

LAWRENCE DISCUSSES DEMOCRATIC PARTY

ducted will depend whether public opinion is alienated by refusal to allow the Hatch compromise to come to a vote

Bar From Indeed

On the whole the supreme court controversy is far from over with and Mr Roosevelt carried on his charm school at Jefferson Island only as a preliminary course of education with a few senators who he hopes will at least help him get a vote in the senate on some kind of a bill The President however, may have underestimated the strength of the opposition in the senate to the court measure Certainly a filibuster has an even chance of killing all action on his bill at this session and to undo whatever good his harmony conferences at Jefferson Island may have accomplished for him

What Mr Roosevelt may not perceive is that it is his alliance with the forces of John Lewis which is causing dismay on Capitol Hill and that the road to harmony inside the Democratic party really lies in satisfying the south that its industries are not going to be controlled by a board in Washington and that the CIO domination will no longer be countenanced by the President

FINDING A MORAL IN THE DAY'S NEWS

fairs proceed just as international affairs do. If they are going to be governed by law, then the time to risk a fight is the moment the law is broken. Laws are broken for only one purpose: to gain ends that cannot be achieved quickly by legal means. And the breaking of laws is always justified by the desirability or nobility of the ends. If the CIO breaks the law, it is all right because labor has gotten a raw deal. If the economic royalists break the tax laws they ought to be persecuted because the tax laws are bad.

"And the final stage of all such procedures is the same; things are settled by force. And then the right or wrong, the nobility or viciousness of the end has nothing to do with the outcome. The outcome depends only on who has the most guns.

"Am I the crowds who never had the most guns," concluded the Grouse, "are the crowds who happen to care about civilization. They have more brains than both sides combined. They are the only real justification for the existence of the human race anyhow. Tigers are more beautiful, ants more industrious and influenza germs more destructive. The crowds who care for civilization write all the libraries, make all the inventions, design all the codes of law that endure for any time, halt and sometimes conquer diseases, and even make all the discoveries which make warfare the horror which it is. But they are weak."

"Why weak with all those powers?"

"They are weak because they are not nearly as numerous as in times of peace and civilization, they appear to be. Am I they have an inferior instinct of survival. If it were not inferior they would gather together, as though by tribal instinct the moment the law is threatened. For they are the only people for whom the rule of law is essential.

The Grouse retreated back behind the newspaper from where he mumbled.

"Look at the intellectuals in Russia. They made the Russian revolution. And ever since then it has been busy cutting off their heads and fins own."
